Nationwide Negro Work Stoppage Set

Colored Race's Leaders
Call For Observance
For Hour On March 28

(By The Associated Press)
Negro leaders have called for one-hour work stoppage March 28 by all members of their race throughout the nation in support of the Negro boycott against segregated buses in Montgomery, Ala. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) yesterday made a call for the work stoppage and said it would be coupled with a day of prayer.
A spokesman for Negroes said in New York that prolonged national work stoppages and mass fastings by the nation's Negroes were possibilities if the racial crisis in Alabama is not resolved. He said members of all races and faiths will be urged to join with the Negro demonstrators.
Powell, Negro pastor of a 15,000-member New York congregation, said the demonstration March 28 would be designated "National Deliverance Day of Prayer" and that no Negro of any age would attend school or work between 2 and 3 p. m.

A SPOKESMAN said this might be a forerunner to a possible "National Mahatma Gandhi-type movement." The late Indian leader made famous a passive resistance program of fasting and nonviolent opposition to British rule.

While plans for the work stoppage were being made in New York, Negroes walked the streets of Montgomery in a mass 24-hour pilgrimage to prove their willingness to walk if necessary to carry on their 11-week-old boycott in protest against segregation on city buses.

Ninety of them walked to the courthouse in Montgomery first arraignment on antiboycott indictments returned by a grand jury.

All pleaded innocent and their trials were set to start March 19. A court officer said 10 more warrants were outstanding. This brings the number of defendants to 100.

Defense attorneys filed demurrers contesting the indictments which charged violation of Alabama's law against "illegal" boycotting. Maximum penalty under the law is six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Judge Eugene Carter withheld a ruling on the demurrers which said, in effect, that the state has failed to make out a case even if the facts alleged in the indictments are true.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP Assn., for the Advancement of Colored People termed the indictment of the Montgomery Negroes "the Soviet communism method."

I find some statistics boring and others intensely interesting. I have before me some data on the amount of wheat consumed in America, per capita, now and in past years. I was surprised to find that in 1955 the per capita consumption of wheat in the U. S. was less than three bushels for each person, while in 1909 the average consumption was 5 1/2 bushels for each person.

Why?
It is explained that the big drop in consumption of wheat per capita in the nation has been due to a pronounced change in diet since 1909, the trend being toward greater consumption of dairy products, eggs, green vegetables, fruits, etc.
The big decrease in consumption of wheat for food is believed to be one of the reasons the wheat surplus has grown. For instance 91,000,000 Americans in 1919 consumed as much wheat as 164,500,000 Americans did in 1955.
Had the 1909 ratio of consumption continued in 1955 some 361,000,000 more bushels of wheat would have been consumed in America last year than the amount which was consumed.

Fans React To Victory as Anti-Climax

The Lions of Washington C. H. High School are the champions of the South Central Ohio League. They drubbed a keyed-up squad of battling Tigers at Greenfield Friday night to take the crown clear and free.

The championship game ended with a score of 51 to 43. To end with that score, the Washington C. H. cagers pulled out in front in the final quarter after a see-saw exchange of baskets for the first three quarters.

The Lions, assured of at least a tie with the Wilmington Hurricane when they went to Greenfield, were out to gain their second SCO title this year after taking top honors in the league in football.

With a final quarter burst of driving, ball-stealing play, they did.

The Tigers, one of Greenfield's most docile bunch of big cats in years, were not acting like kittens in spite of a season record of six wins and 17 losses.

The Tigers were out to claw the Lions down to size.
For a while, it looked like they might do it.

THE POCKET-SIZED Greenfield McClain High School gym was packed to the rafters with both Greenfield and Washington C. H. rooters.

Although no count was taken on the number of WHS fans in the bleachers, the shouting reaction to Lion play indicated that a sizeable bunch had turned out.

In the preliminary game, the Greenfield Reserves beat the Lion Reserves 54 to 43.

Jackson Con's Case Slated For Probe

COLUMBUS (AP)—The case of an Ohio Pen inmate who claims he was in jail at the time of a murder for which he was convicted is to be referred to the Legal Aid Society for investigation.

Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Harter told the prisoner, Edgar Johnson, at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus yesterday:

"On the basis of evidence you have shown, you are certainly entitled to the benefits of an attorney. I think that this is something that should be looked into."

Johnson claimed in the writ he was in Jackson County Jail at the time of the body of Cyrus Carl Rife, 14, was found on a railroad track Nov. 1, 1943. The boy's death first was ruled suicide. He was killed when a train ran across his body. On Jan. 25, 1945, Johnson was removed from the penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for robbery, and taken to Jackson where he was charged with first-degree murder.

Johnson claimed he was told the charge would be reduced to manslaughter if he would plead guilty. He said he agreed and was sentenced to from 1-20 years.

In court yesterday, he produced Jackson County records showing he was in jail from Oct. 6, 1943, to Dec. 3, 1943.

Judge Harter denied the writ but suggested to Johnson that his case be taken up in Jackson County, where he was sentenced. The judge also said he would inform Joseph Ralston, director of the Legal Aid Society, of the case.

Dulles Sure West Policy Tops Reds'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles appeared confident today the United States and its allies can defeat Russia's new "united front" strategy of world conquest with little change in their own activities. Others disagreed.

Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday Russia's post-Stalin leaders are scrapping 30 years of Soviet policy based on violence and intolerance in trying to devise new plans because their old programs "have failed."

He declared they have made "very little progress" in their attempts to take over the world and he said their new efforts to employ economic aid and similar measures to penetrate foreign countries mean they are "playing our game."

"We can beat them at that game," he confidently declared.

In the course of the 3 1/2-hour session, Sens. Mansfield (D-Mont), Barkley (D-Ky) and Humphrey (D-Minn) took issue with Dulles' assertions of confidence, and Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said as the hearing concluded that "I don't share that optimism at all."

HUMPHREY AND Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) called today for a change in U. S. policies to meet the Soviet maneuver. Humphrey said Russia's change of policy "is a clear indication we should change ours." Sparkman called it "tragic" that, as he put it, "we haven't shown sufficient change to meet these developments."

On the GOP side, Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said the Democrats tried without success "to find a weakness in Dulles' policies and in Dulles."

And Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said Dulles' testimony "made sense."

Aiken said he saw a "tinge of politics in the questioning" of Dulles by the Democrats and added:

"The only thing some statesmen have in common with George Washington is the hatchet."

Lockbourne Air Base
Reels Under Big Blow
Coming This Morning

Roused from the slumbers just about dawn by a deluge of rain and a mixture of hail, that came in from the west on high winds and to the accompaniment of thunder and lightning, the people of Fayette County Saturday were given an ominous preview of the blustery weather that is sure to come with Spring.

And, with tornado warnings being issued periodically, everyone had a severe case of jitters by mid-morning.

While nearly everyone put in most of the time watching westward and staring at the low-hanging gray clouds, the lights flickering on and off did nothing to soothe jangled nerves.

Hundreds in the southern and eastern part of Washington C. H. got dressed in semi-darkness while the lights were out for 15 or 20 minutes. Some men pocketed electric razors to shave at their places of work.

RAINFALL of .69 of an inch was recorded here Friday and up until 8 A. M. Saturday.

So far during this month, precipitation has been 4.07 inches, or 1.33 inches above total of 2.74, normal for the entire month.

Inasmuch as precipitation in January was 17 of an inch short the total rainfall so far has made up the January deficit, with 1.16 inches to spare.

January rainfall was 3.07 of an inch, and 3.24 inches is normal for that month.

Temperatures rose to 53 during Friday afternoon and had reached 50 at 8 A. M. Saturday.

Streams of the county again reflect the recent heavy rainfall and are running bank full and some have overflowed into the low lands, reports state.

Vicious Storms Lash

West-Central Ohio

(By The Associated Press)
Tornadic winds accompanied by heavy thunderstorms struck central and southwestern Ohio this morning. Apparently hardest hit was Hamilton. Damage was severe in that city of 60,000.

At least 13 persons were reported injured, none seriously.

Roofs in Hamilton were ripped off, trees uprooted, cars overturned and hundreds of windows smashed in the storm carrying winds reported at one time up to 84 miles per hour.

In addition to Hamilton, damage was reported in Columbus, Chillicothe, Cedarville in Greene County, and other spots in the path of the storm from west-to-east across south-central Ohio.

Lockbourne Air Force Base, midway between Circleville and Columbus, was reported hard-hit, with one business near there partially leveled. The AFB control tower was badly damaged with several of the personnel suffering cuts from flying glass.

Trees and poles were knocked down in parts of Columbus.

REPORTS of downed utility lines came from the Circleville area with damage claims in the rural Ashville-Lockbourne area reported by insurance agencies as numerous.

Police and firemen were starting a preliminary survey of the Hamilton damage which at first reports was expected to reach many thousands of dollars.

The roof of a three-story building at the Lodge and Shipley Co., Hamilton tool manufacturers, was blown off, closing down that plant which employs several hundred persons. The roof of the Butler County jail was blown into the yard of a church next door.

Four persons, a bus driver, a pedestrian and two boys were reported hurt in Hamilton. The boys were reported to have been pinned in their bed when the roof of their home collapsed.

Scores of flat glass windows in business places in downtown Hamilton were reported smashed in the winds that swept over the city in a semi-circle, striking first in the southern section, veering to the west, turning north and then east.

The state highway patrol reported nine persons, including a baby, were hurt in the Chillicothe area where winds upset seven trailers at two camps.

Roused from the slumbers just about dawn by a deluge of rain and a mixture of hail, that came in from the west on high winds and to the accompaniment of thunder and lightning, the people of Fayette County Saturday were given an ominous preview of the blustery weather that is sure to come with Spring.

And, with tornado warnings being issued periodically, everyone had a severe case of jitters by mid-morning.

While nearly everyone put in most of the time watching westward and staring at the low-hanging gray clouds, the lights flickering on and off did nothing to soothe jangled nerves.

Hundreds in the southern and eastern part of Washington C. H. got dressed in semi-darkness while the lights were out for 15 or 20 minutes. Some men pocketed electric razors to shave at their places of work.

RAINFALL of .69 of an inch was recorded here Friday and up until 8 A. M. Saturday.

So far during this month, precipitation has been 4.07 inches, or 1.33 inches above total of 2.74, normal for the entire month.

Inasmuch as precipitation in January was 17 of an inch short the total rainfall so far has made up the January deficit, with 1.16 inches to spare.

January rainfall was 3.07 of an inch, and 3.24 inches is normal for that month.

Temperatures rose to 53 during Friday afternoon and had reached 50 at 8 A. M. Saturday.

Streams of the county again reflect the recent heavy rainfall and are running bank full and some have overflowed into the low lands, reports state.

Vicious Storms Lash

West-Central Ohio

(By the Associated Press)
Tornado winds accompanied by heavy thunderstorms struck central and southwestern Ohio this morning. Apparently hardest hit was Hamilton. Damage was severe in that city of 60,000.

At least 13 persons were reported injured, none seriously.

Roofs in Hamilton were ripped off, trees uprooted, cars overturned and hundreds of windows smashed in the storm carrying winds reported at one time up to 84 miles per hour.

In addition to Hamilton, damage was reported in Columbus, Chillicothe, Cedarville in Greene County, and other spots in the path of the storm from west-to-east across south-central Ohio.

Lockbourne Air Force Base, midway between Circleville and Columbus, was reported hard-hit, with one business near there partially leveled. The AFB control tower was badly damaged with several of the personnel suffering cuts from flying glass.

Trees and poles were knocked down in parts of Columbus.

REPORTS OF downed utility lines came from the Circleville area with damage claims in the rural Ashville-Lockbourne area reported by insurance agencies as numerous.

Police and firemen were starting a preliminary survey of the Hamilton damage which at first reports was expected to reach many thousands of dollars.

The roof of a three-story building at the Lodge and Shipley Co., Hamilton tool manufacturers, was blown off, closing down that plant which employs several hundred persons. The roof of the Butler County Jail was blown into the yard of a church next door.

Four persons, a bus driver, a pedestrian and two boys were reported hurt in Hamilton. The boys were reported to have been pinned in their bed when the roof of their home collapsed.

Scores of flat glass windows in business places in downtown Hamilton were reported smashed in the winds that swept over the city in a semi-circle, striking first in the southern section, veering to the west, turning north and then east.

The state highway patrol reported nine persons, including a baby, were hurt in the Chillicothe area where winds upset seven trailers at two camps.

Five trailers were upset and (Please Turn to Page Ten)

Lamb Payment Changes Made

New Rule To Become Effective On April 1

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a change in the method of making payments for lambs marketed with the wool on under the wool incentive program. The change will become effective with the 1956 marketing year, beginning April 1.

Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist, says that under the new method each producer who sells unshorn lambs will be eligible for a payment, provided he has owned the lambs for 30 days or more.

Payments to each producer will be made on the weight or weight increase of the animals that occurs during his ownership. This is in contrast to the method for the current program of making payments only on animals marketed for slaughter, Barr explains.

The original producer of lambs, under the new method, will be eligible for a payment based on the full live weight of the animals at the time he sells them. Each subsequent owner will be eligible for payment only on that portion of the weight produced during his ownership. In the case of lambs purchased before April 1, 1956, and marketed later, payment will be on the full weight at the time of sale.

OWNERSHIP of 30 days or more will continue to be an eligibility requirement. The method of determining lamb payments will not be changed. The rate will be based on the incentive payment for shorn wool converted to a flat rate per hundred pounds of live weight of the animals marketed. Payments will be made only on unshorn lambs.

Under the new method, each applicant must make an accounting of the number of head and pounds of animals purchased and sold, and his payment will be made on the pounds gained while he owned them. Payments to producers who buy unshorn lambs and later shear them will be subject to a downward adjustment in any shorn wool incentive payment they apply for. The downward adjustment will be the amount of the lamb payment the previous owner was eligible to receive.

FFA Public Speaking Contest To Be Mar. 3

Ohio's FFA public speaking contest will be held March 22 on the Ohio State University campus. The contest is one of the Youth Day activities of Farm and Home Week, scheduled for March 20, 21 and 22.

Approximately 15 district winners will compete for the state championship and a chance to enter the regional contest. Regional winners will vie for national honors at the FFA's national convention in Kansas City, Mo. next fall.

Preliminaries in Ohio's contest will be held in the Agricultural Laboratories building beginning at 9 A. M. Finals are set for the afternoon in Plumb Hall.

The contest is a feature of Farm and Home Week program planned by the agricultural education department of Ohio State University. The department also has arranged sessions for Young Farmer groups March 22 in the Agricultural Laboratories building. Willard Wolf, assistant professor, agricultural education, will moderate a panel on "Keeping the Young Farmer Group Active," starting at 1 P. M. Young Farmer representatives from Dresden, Frankfort, Madison Rural, Mt. Vernon, Sycamore and Westerville will participate.

The Young Farmers association will conduct a business meeting at 4 P. M. and Young Farmer members will be invited to a banquet in Pomerene Hall in the evening.

White stock hogs grazing on a hillside, with just enough subdued sunlight on them to make them show up well on a background of bluegrass pasture, near Cincinnati. They were vigorous healthy porkers too, and were the modern meat type, in strong demand on the market today. They were not doing any rooting either, but if a few happen to lose their rings they'll soon be at it, and they may do a lot of damage to the well established bluegrass stand. This would be a good time to give close attention to the stock hogs, and to put the rings back promptly; it's a job that is pretty easy to put off too, especially if you have one of the flu coids so common this winter. It's a good time to keep a close watch on the brood sows too, for they seem to like to root more in late winter and early spring than at any other time of the year. "We've got a sow or two that we ought to ring again, but we have them in a field that we don't care if they do root; then I've got a cold," a southern Ohio farmer who operates one of the largest farming businesses in southern Ohio recently said. While there is something to be said for having hogs root in a well established sod, going back to corn in the rotation, they leave the ground uneven and if the field is plowed late, it makes riding on the tractor a pretty "joity job" as one man expressed it. It's hard to do a good job of plowing on uneven ground too.

JONQUIL

"A bulbous plant with fragrant flowers: A species of daffodil; a species of narcissus." That's the way Webster's dictionary defines it. Anyway it's a very pretty spring flower and it has a delightful fragrance. If you want to make a very good investment, go to your florist and buy some of these flowers, that are potted, and then water them liberally every day, and you'll add a touch of spring to your home that you'll like, and that the children will like. We have a pot of these flowers on the kitchen table that surely helps us in getting the day well started.

Now would be a good time to take up some bulbous plants at your home and pot them and bring them in the house; if you water them as suggested you'll soon have many beautiful flowers that you'll all like.

TOO MANY PIGS

When I recently asked a very good southern Ohio homemaker how they were getting along she replied: "All right but the brood sows are having too many pigs; we're killing the runts." I expect this is good business, but it seems to me that a better thing to do would be to give them away. A pig makes a pretty good pet for a farm boy or girl, and if they have a present of a runt and take good care of it, it is pretty apt to grow into a hog as large as any of its breed, and it could be the means of getting some boy or girl started into the farming business. I think of some very good illustrations of this.

WATER ON THE WHEAT

I recently crossed Brown and Clermont Counties and saw a few fields of wheat that looked pretty good, but most of them didn't, and water was standing on them. Some time spent in opening the ditches with a shovel would let a lot of water off of some of the fields and be time profitably spent.

A profitable farm practice is top dressing the winter wheat with about 200 to 250 pounds of complete fertilizer but it won't do much good on a wet field.

GOOD SHEEP HUSBANDRY

We recently passed a Brown County farm where some sheep were fed on high ground where they had dry feet as more hay was added to the pile of uneaten hay.

"A hog can stand having its feet wet but a sheep can't," I said yesterday to a very successful southern Ohio farmer. "That's right," he replied, "but hogs do better if they have dry footing too." Then he told me that he liked to feed his hogs on a board floor in the barn, and that he kept it clean and well bedded. We agreed that a farmer got well paid for keeping his livestock clean and well bedded, it any season of the year.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO QUIT CHEWING TOBACCO?

This is what a man asked me yesterday. "I was doing too much chewing so I decided to quit it. A friend said that the thing to do was to carry a little tobacco with me, and if I wanted to chew so bad that I just had to chew, to nibble a little on the tobacco," this man explained. He carried some with him for awhile, but he made up his mind that he wouldn't nibble on it and he didn't. He says that the way to quit a thing is to quit it; he has well demonstrated that his plan will work.

TAKING GOOD CARE OF YOURSELF

You get well paid for taking good care of yourself. Most folks are agreed on that but sometimes when you are farming, you can't do it, and you've got to take some punishment like working in the rain when stock gets out. When you get wet on a job like that, it won't hurt you in most cases, if you change your clothes and get into dry warm ones, just as soon as you can, but don't put it off, for you may get chilled and the body temperature go down. When you do, you're inviting infection from the "flu" or from some of the many kinds of germs or virus infections, common at this season of the year. (I'll not charge you anything for this advice but it is good advice and it will pay you to follow it.)

LOW PRESSURE AREA

"When you see a rather long dark cloud in the west low on the horizon late in the afternoon, with ridge like clouds leading out from it, like the spokes of a wheel, it is a pretty good indication that a low pressure area is approaching, and that some precipitation is coming in a few hours." I recently said to Mrs. Berry as we were driving toward the west in late afternoon, and watching the cloud pattern I have described. The next morning it was raining. We could have gotten rain, snow or sleet from clouds like that, but the temperature was above freezing, so we got rain.

VERY THIN DAIRY CATTLE

We recently passed a very good herd of Holstein cattle but some of them were very thin. It's a hard job to keep up the body weight of a heavy milker in late winter and early spring, but it's a profitable thing to do, for if she gets her weight down and it will be impossible to get it up during the lactation period. Some times adding some ground corn to the usual ration of a thin cow at milking time will help to keep up her weight.

"If" she likes ground corn and most cows do. "The way to find out the likes and dislikes of a cow is to ask her," a very well informed dairy specialist pointed out when I was in the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University. When you have a little time, put the cow in a stall with a little ground corn in front of her, and she'll tell you if she likes it. We tried this on one of our thin cows and she left it, so we took the ground corn out of her ration and fed her some ground oats and ground wheat instead and she got her body weight back, but it took a long time to do it, for she was one of the best milkers we had.

HOGS IN THE ROAD

If you're doing much driving now, it will pay you to reduce your speed for there are many holes on some of the black top roads. I was on one a few days ago and I thought I was in a hurry and could make good time for it was a good road. I run over a small deep hole, the kind that may break a tire, so I slowed down and soon found several more, but I was looking for them and missed most of them. The next day a road maintenance crew had filled most of the holes with fine asphalt treated stone, and while the road was rough in places it wasn't dangerous.

11 Field Days Are Announced

Experiment Station Gives Schedules

Eleven special field days covering all phases of agriculture will make up the 1956 summer program at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Director L. L. Rummel has announced.

Heading the list of events is Beef Cattle Day scheduled for Wednesday, April 25. Activities will be held in the station's new service building adjacent to the main beef cattle barn.

Greenhouse Vegetable Day is set for Thursday, May 10; Small Fruits Day, Thursday, June 14; and Turkey Day, Wednesday, June 20.

Hay and Pasture Day is planned for Friday, July 13. Sheep Day and Dairy Day, two of the station's most popular field days, will be held Friday, July 27 and Friday, August 10 respectively.

A 2-day meeting for members of the Ohio Pesticide Institute is set for August 14 and 15.

The 34th annual Ohio Orchard Day will be held at the Ohio station Thursday, August 16. Lawn and Turfgrass Day is scheduled for Wednesday, September 5. This event was held for the first time in 1955, and is planned especially to give help to homeowners and others on lawn problems.

The program of special days concludes with Ohio Swine Day on Thursday, September 20.

Director Rummel stated that field days at the station have a 2-fold purpose: to bring visitors up to date on the newest research knowledge, and to offer everyone a chance to see the results of research in action.

Sunspots are scheduled for an 11-year peak in 1957-58, says the National Geographic Society.

Blue Ribbon Hog Carcasses Will Be Displayed At Annual Show

Swine producers, meat packers, processors and others will view carcasses of top hogs in Ohio's 1956 Spring Barrow show Wednesday afternoon, February 29 at the Youth Center, Ohio State fairgrounds.

Between 25 and 30 carcasses will be on display, according to Herbert Barnes, Ohio State University extension specialist in animal science.

They will represent the best of from 80 to 100 barrow show carcasses to be displayed that morning.

'Diapers' Help To Build Pond

LEXINGTON, Ky. (P)—Diapers for farm ponds?

Certainly. Plastic, at that. The man-made bottom, no thicker than a plastic raincoat, might solve the old problem of ponds that won't hold water.

A test demonstration of the only plastic-bottom pond in Kentucky is under way on the E. M. Emmert farm. Once the six-foot deep reservoir is filled, results can be checked by water level changes, explained Earl Welch, University of Kentucky agricultural engineer.

The idea developed from a plastic covering for greenhouses. The material kept water out of greenhouses and engineers figure it might keep it in ponds.

Loose dirt was removed and sheets of plastic (polyethylene) 6-1,000 of an inch thick and 12 feet wide placed on the pond floor, lapped a foot at the seams, and covered with eight inches of dirt.

The material costs about 2-4 cents a square foot and its life is estimated at 20 years. Welch says a cheaper plastic, only two-thirds as thick, might be satisfactory.

ing in the coolers of a Columbus packing firm.

The carcasses will be from the kind of market hogs that are most practical for the farmer to produce and at the same time meet consumer preference for lean, meaty pork cuts.

These persons attending the luncheon and Carcass Day program at the fairgrounds will see both prize-winning carcasses and cuts. Carcass contest winners will receive awards as a special feature of the program. Winners of a barrow show judging contest also will be announced.

Speakers will include a representative of the American Meat Institute, Chicago, who will explain the industry's pork promotion campaign, and Dr. R. F. Wilson, animal science department, Ohio State University, who will present an annual report of the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association. Dr. Wilson is secretary of the group.

The Carcass Day program is a follow-up feature of the Ohio Spring Barrow show to be held February 25 at the Madison County fairgrounds in London.

The event is sponsored by the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association in cooperation with livestock market agencies, packers, feed manufacturers and livestock equipment companies.

Heading the list of events is Beef Cattle Day scheduled for Wednesday, April 25. Activities will be held in the station's new service building adjacent to the main beef cattle barn.

Greenhouse Vegetable Day is set for Thursday, May 10; Small Fruits Day, Thursday, June 14; and Turkey Day, Wednesday, June 20.

Hay and Pasture Day is planned for Friday, July 13. Sheep Day and Dairy Day, two of the station's most popular field days, will be held Friday, July 27 and Friday, August 10 respectively.

A 2-day meeting for members of the Ohio Pesticide Institute is set for August 14 and 15.

The 34th annual Ohio Orchard Day will be held at the Ohio station Thursday, August 16. Lawn and Turfgrass Day is scheduled for Wednesday, September 5. This event was held for the first time in 1955, and is planned especially to give help to homeowners and others on lawn problems.

The program of special days concludes with Ohio Swine Day on Thursday, September 20.

Director Rummell stated that field days at the station have a 2-fold purpose: to bring visitors up to date on the newest research knowledge, and to offer everyone a chance to see the results of research in action.

Sunspots are scheduled for an 11-year peak in 1957-58, says the National Geographic Society.

Blue Ribbon Hog Carcasses Will Be Displayed At Annual Show

Swine producers, meat packers, processors and others will view carcasses of top hogs in Ohio's 1956 Spring Barrow show Wednesday afternoon, February 29 at the Youth Center, Ohio State fairgrounds.

Between 25 and 30 carcasses will be on display, according to Herbert Barnes, Ohio State University extension specialist in animal science.

They will represent the best of from 80 to 100 barrow show carcasses to be displayed that morning in the coolers of a Columbus packing firm.

They carcasses will be from the kind of market hogs that are most practical for the farmer to produce and at the same time meet consumer preference for lean, meaty pork cuts.

These persons attending the luncheon and Carcass Day program at the fairgrounds will see both prize-winning carcasses and cuts. Carcass contest winners will receive awards as a special feature of the program. Winners of a barrow show judging contest also will be announced.

Spenters will include a representative of the American Meat Institute, Chicago, who will explain the industry's pork promotion campaign, and Dr. R. F. Wilson, animal science department, Ohio State University, who will present an annual report of the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association. Dr. Wilson is secretary of the group.

The Carcass Day program is a follow-up feature of the Ohio Spring Barrow show to be held February 25 at the Madison County fairgrounds in London.

The event is sponsored by the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association in cooperation with livestock market agencies, packers, feed manufacturers and livestock equipment companies.

'Diapers' Help To Build Pond

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Diapers for farm ponds?

Certainly. Plastic, at that.

The man-made bottom, no thicker than a plastic raincoat, might solve the old problem of ponds that won't hold water.

A test demonstration of the only plastic-bottom pond in Kentucky is under way on the E. M. Emmert farm. Once the six-foot deep reservoir is filled, results can be checked by water level changes, explained Earl Welch, University of Kentucky agricultural engineer.

The idea developed from a plastic covering for greenhouses. The material kept water out of greenhouses and engineers figure it might keep it in ponds.

Loose dirt was removed and sheets of plastic (polyethylene) 6-1,000 of an inch thick and 12 feet wide placed on the pond floor, lapped a foot at the seams, and covered with eight inches of dirt.

The material costs about 2 1/4 cents a square foot and its life is estimated at 20 years. Welch says a cheaper plastic, only two-thirds as thick, might be satisfactory.

Feed Handling Clinic At Xenia on Thursday Includes Farmers Here

How many Fayette County farmers will attend the Miami Valley Labor Saving Feed Handling Clinic at Xenia on March 1 today was conjectured, but the complete printed program has been distributed to 150 of them here by the Extension Service and early indications were that many of those who received them will take advantage of the opportunity.

However, it was made plain that the clinic, which is to be held in the Art Hall on the Greene County Fairground, is open to everyone and not restricted to those farmers who were sent programs.

A letter signed by County Agent W. W. Montgomery and his associate, Phil Grover, that accompanied the programs said in part:

"When you look over this program, you see some mighty interesting topics. . . with the low price of hogs and the cost-price squeeze I am sure we all want to find out how we can get our farm chores done easier.

"I think you will agree that it (the clinic) can be a day worthwhile."

Six counties are participating in the clinic—Greene, Fayette, Clinton, Clark, Montgomery and Preble.

Herb Sollars, who has the Sollars Pig Hatchery on the Snow Hill pike will be Fayette County's representative on the program. He is to talk on "Mechanized Feed Handling for Swine."

The clinic, an all-day affair, is to start with registration at 9:30 A. M. and continue until 2:30 P. M. These hours give farmers time to get their program of operations for the day under way before they leave and time to get home in time for the day-end chores.

THE MORNING sessions is to open with George Wadlington, Preble County agent telling the gathering that "The Pitch Fork and Scoop Shovel Have Had Their Day."

Then will come a panel discussion on forage handling with R. D. Barden, head of the Ohio State University's Agricultural Engineering Department, as the moderator.

Six different phases of forage handling are to be taken up by as many different members of the panel:

Bob Campbell of Preble County, "Easy Feeding from a Trench Silo."

W. H. Brubaker of Preble County, "No Lift Bale Handling."

C. E. Pickering of Greene County, "Self Feeding Hay."

Arthur Flory of Preble County, "Using Conveyors in a Mechanical Feeding System."

Don Schell of Preble County, "Handling Silage from a Harvester."

Homer Bohl of Highland County, "Using an Electric Motor for Blowing Silage and Chopped Hay."

After the panel finished its discussion, there is to be a question and answer period of forage handling and then R. A. Bailey of OSU's Rural Economics Department is to discuss "The Economics of Labor Saving in Feed Handling."

Following an hour lunch period at 11:30 A. M., for which there is to be a lunch stand in the Art Hall, there is to be registration for the afternoon session at 12:30 o'clock and a half hour to take in the exhibits of feed handling equipment.

THE AFTERNOON panel on "Concentrate Handling" is to be moderated by Barden also.

This panel is to be made up of seven members each of whom is to take a different phase of the subject:

Sollars, from Fayette County, is to discuss "Mechanized Handling of Feed for Swine;"

Lloyd Wildman of Greene County, "Mechanized Feed Handling for Sheep;"

R. H. Campbell of Preble County, "A Mechanized Corn Crib;"

R. S. Thompson of Clark County, "Mechanized Feed Handling for a Dairy;"

Ward Brubaker of Preble County, "Taking the Life Out of Ground Feed Handling;"

Bill Conklin of Greene County, "A Conveyor Belt Feeds the Cattle;"

Ernest Beam of Greene County, "Mechanized Feed Handling for Dairy and Swine."

After a question and answer period on concentrate handling, J. D. Blakie, an extension agricultural engineer from OSU, is to discuss "Fitting Labor Saving Equipment To Your Present Building Set-up;" and "L. P. Blausner, also an extension agricultural engineer from OSU, is to tell about "Adding Labor Saving Equipment to Your Present Farm Wiring System."

Tomato Growing Champions Named

Three Henry Countians have been named Ohio's champion tomato growers in the Top Ten tomato club. They are Herman W. Gerken, and Karl W. and Vernon K. Meyer, father and son, all of route 1, Napoleon.

Gerken produced 26.34 tons per acre on 4 acres and the Meyers 21.64 tons per acre on 29.4 acres. Gerken's yield was more than double the 1935 state average yield of 11.7 tons, according to Eugene Wittmeyer, Ohio State University extension horticulturist.

County winners include: Ivor Watkins, Allen County; Norman Sanders, Darke; Paul Zachrich, Defiance; Paul Miller, Erie; Leo Schmitz, Jr., Fulton; Paul Stephens, Hancock; Kenton and George Tredway, Lucas; Wayne Shively, Mercer; Jackson Johnson, Miami; George Rauch, Ottawa; Tom Strable, Paulding; Alfred J. Unverferth, Putnam; John Yeagle, Sandusky; Raymond Saalman, Seneca; George Hoffman, Van Wert; Earl Luty, Williams; C. E. Bostdorf, Wood and A. T. Stephen and Sons, Wyandot.

The Ohio Top Ten tomato club includes growers with yields in the top 10 percent of growers contracting with participating processors. The club's purpose, according to Wittmeyer, is to encourage growers to use better cultural practices in the production of tomatoes for processing and recognize those who do a good job.

State and county winners will receive awards at an annual conference of canners, fieldmen and vegetable growers in Columbus February 6 and 7.

The project is sponsored by the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service, the Ohio Canners Association and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

One of the panelists at the Feed Handling Clinic next Thursday, in the Art Hall at the Greene County Fair Grounds at Xenia will be Herb Sollars of Washington C. H. He will discuss mechanized feed handling equipment which has been essential in reducing the amount of labor caring for pigs. Above, he uses a drag chain below the floor of a driveway to move grain to a cup elevator which carries the grain to storage and drying bins. Farmers of Fayette County will be welcome at the Clinic which begins at 9 A. M.

Trees, Strawberries and Pasture All Possible Under New Program

Paul Warfield, a supervisor in the Belmont Soil Conservation District, is going to plant a 40-acre farm entirely to trees. This land is located one mile from his dairy farm and has, in the past, been used for grazing young stock. It would require a large investment for lime and fertilizer in order to make it produce good pasture. Warfield feels that trees will, in the long run, return a better investment on this land.

He plans to establish his plantings in the following way:

The scattered brush will be cut and the stumps poisoned with 24D and 24ST. On the steep land, white and Austrian pine will be planted 6 feet apart both ways. The Austrian pine will be shaped and managed for the Christmas tree market and the white pine will be allowed to grow into valuable timber.

On the remainder of the field, Warfield will plant Scotch and Austrian pine and Norway spruce. These seedlings will be planted every 5 feet in rows spaced far enough apart so as to operate a farm tractor and rotary mower between them.

The trees will be set with a mechanical tree planter owned by the Belmont Forestry Services, Inc. When they are harvested at the end of 6 years, the area will be replanted. 5,000 trees will be planted each year which will allow for continuous harvesting after 6 years of planting.

John P. Feisley of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service assisted Warfield in planning his 40-acre tree farm.

SEVERAL YEARS ago, Wilbur Jones of West Farmington, built an addition to his barn. He wanted to keep more cows. He also wanted to earn more money from his farm.

Jones got the cows and immediately started clearing brush, liming, fertilizing and seeding his pasture fields.

"Had plenty of feed when my lime and fertilizer began to work, but then I found my old system didn't furnish enough water for my extra livestock," declared Jones.

He got in touch with his Soil Conservation District. Duane Bosworth, SCS technician, helped him locate and plan a farm pond.

Today, water from the pond flows into a cistern, kept at constant level with a simple float valve and, from the cistern, to the barn.

"So," Bosworth said, "water, plus feed, plus treated land, plus a good barn, adds up to a better farm income for Jones. This is a common experience of farmers who apply soil conservation practices," he concludes.

NEXT SUMMER, about 4 miles south of Lebanon, on Highway 42, over a rise in the road, a fine mist will greet your eye. Closer inspection will identify the whirling charge of about 45 sprinklers and, beneath them, pushing up their green leaves, white blooms which later will produce 5 acres of luscious red strawberries.

This berry operation was started several years ago by George Henkle, who has worked with Wayne E. Wilson, an SCS technician, on several soil conservation projects during the past 10 years.

Beginning in 1954, Henkle, assisted by a former employee of the SCS, installed some irrigation equipment. In 1955, to further the irrigation project, Henkle installed a large irrigation pump in Turtle Creek to boost the water to his 5 acres of berries.

When the season arrives, Henkle will advertise in the newspapers and by word of mouth will invite people to come and pick their own berries. He will furnish baskets, or they may bring their own containers. They will cost approximately 25 cents per quart. From this method of harvest, the strawberry yield last year was about 16,000 quarts on 3½ acres.

Henkle, who cooperates with his Warren County Soil Conservation District, is satisfied that his irrigation equipment is paying off and plans to install about 3 more acres of berries and sprinkler equipment this year.

His plantings have been made in accordance with recommendations of The Ohio State University.

"I WOULD LIKE some help in draining an island," said Richard Wuebker, a farm operator in western Ohio, last spring when he visited his Soil Conservation District office.

Thus, began what may be the first attempt in western Ohio by SCS technicians to drain an island — 237-acre Green Island in Lake Lorain in Shelby County.

After extensive surveys by SCS technicians, a complete drainage plan was developed. In addition to an open ditch, 37,000 feet of tile were installed with more tile to be put in at a later date.

L. B. Losh, the SCS technician, Richard Wuebker and Robert Hartzell, owner, Piqua, can attest to the success of this unusual project as they look over the tall corn now growing on formerly wet land.

the land to kill the existing vegetation so that it would not compete with the new seeding for moisture. This disking also provided a firm friable seedbed.

The dead vegetation not only is acting as a mulch to prevent excessive moisture evaporation, but also helped to slow down erosion while the new seeding was becoming established.

A 950-pound application of fertilizer was made before disking and 150 pounds of high phosphate fertilizer were placed underneath the seed during the band seeding operation. The alfalfa, red clover, timothy and timothy seeding was made with an ordinary grain drill, with the seeding hose arranged so that the seed was dropped back of the rolling coulters and directly over the fertilizer.

Reynolds, who is a cooperator of the Adams County Soil Conservation District, was assisted with the development of a conservation farm plan by Wayne Garrison and Ed Weaver, of the SCS.

Variety of Meat At Good Prices

Fish Is Plentiful For Lenten Menus

(By The Associated Press)

Meat of many varieties will be found at special prices in food markets this week, giving shoppers a wide choice for this major item of most weekend menus.

Again pork is being widely featured, with prices remaining at the low level of recent weeks.

Beef in a variety of cuts from sirloin to chuck, is being offered at lower prices in a number of markets. In some cases the price of sirloin is four to six cents a pound below last week and some rib roasts are off as much as 4 cents.

Lamb prices stiffened slightly on the wholesale market this week but this has not been reflected in most retail stores.

Fish continues to be plentiful for the lenten season. Prices have been stable at a level close to that of a year ago.

Another lenten item of interest is the egg market. Generally prices for all grades have been running as much as five cents a dozen higher than last year.

Frying chickens are being featured at special prices by at least one large food chain and are pointed out as good buys in others.

DON'T BURN that brush — use it for mulch! That is what Don Noah, a southeastern Ohio farmer, did with about five acres of sumac and blackberry vines.

Noah went over the area with a brush cutter several times until the field was clean, with the sumac and blackberries making a mulch on the surface. He applied lime and manure during the winter. Today, he has an excellent bluegrass pasture.

Noah says this is one benefit of following a farm conservation plan since he has gained pasture by bringing idle land into production.

Earl Nelson, SCS technician, assisted in the Harrison District, as in developing the farm plan.

"IT'S HARD to believe that my renovated pasture has alfalfa a foot high after being seeded just a little over a month," said John E. Reynolds, a southern Ohio farmer.

Reynolds renovated his rolling 17-acre bluegrass pasture field the middle of last May by first disking

See Veterinarian On Mastitis Control

Dr. C. F. Reed, instructor in the veterinary college of Ohio State University, told 150 dairy plant fieldmen meeting on the university campus here recently that farmers should consult a veterinarian when mastitis appears in their dairy cows.

The reason: A veterinarian can better diagnose the stage of the disease and the organisms causing it.

Dr. Reed said contacting a veterinarian should be a farmer's first step, rather than a last resort, in controlling mastitis. The producer may do his own testing once a qualified veterinarian has set up a program, he explained.

Mastitis is a big problem in Ohio, according to Frank Koval, extension specialist in dairy technology at Ohio State University. Koval said farmers often waste a lot of money by attempting to treat the disease without knowing what organisms are causing the trouble.

The number of people of several South American countries is increasing at the rate of 3 percent or more a year, which the Population Reference bureau calls a near explosion rate.

Fish Is Plentiful For Lenten Menus

(By The Associated Press)

Meat of many varieties will be found at special prices in food markets this week, giving shoppers a wide choice for this major item of most weekend menus.

Again pork is being widely featured, with prices remaining at the low level of recent weeks.

Beef in a variety of cuts, from sirloin to chuck, is being offered at lower prices in a number of markets. In some cases the price of sirloin is four to six cents a pound below last week and some rib roasts are off as much as 4 cents.

Lamb prices stiffened slightly on the wholesale market this week but this has not been reflected in most retail stores.

Fish continues to be plentiful for the lenten season. Prices have been stable at a level close to that of a year ago.

Another lenten item of interest is the egg market. Generally prices for all grades have been running as much as five cents a dozen higher than last year.

Frying chickens are being featured at special prices by at least one large food chain and are pointed out as good buys in others.

the land to kill the existing vegetation so that it would not compete with the new seeding for moisture. This disking also provided a firm friable seedbed.

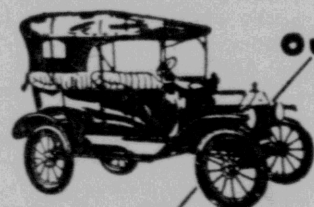

The dead vegetation not only is acting as a mulch to prevent excessive moisture evaporation, but also helped to slow down erosion while the new seeding was becoming established.

A 950-pound application of fertilizer was made before disking and 150 pounds of high phosphate fertilizer were placed underneath the seed during the band seeding operation. The alfalfa, red clover, timothy and timothy seeding was made with an ordinary grain drill, with the seeding hose arranged so that the seed was dropped back of the rolling coulters and directly over the fertilizer.

"IT'S HARD to believe that my renovated pasture has alfalfa a foot high after being seeded just a little over a month," said John E. Reynolds, a southern Ohio farmer.

See Veterinarian On Mastitis Control

Dr. C. F. Reed, instructor in the veterinary college of Ohio State University, told 150 dairy plant fieldmen meeting on the university campus here recently that farmers should consult a veterinarian when mastitis appears in their dairy cows.

The reason: A veterinarian can better diagnose the stage of the disease and the organisms causing it.

Dr. Reed said contacting a veterinarian should be a farmer's first step, rather than a last resort, in controlling mastitis. The producer may do his own testing once a qualified veterinarian has set up a program, he explained.

Mastitis is a big problem in Ohio, according to Frank Koval, extension specialist in dairy technology at Ohio State University. Koval said farmers often waste a lot of money by attempting to treat the disease without knowing what organisms are causing the trouble.

The number of people of several South American countries is increasing at the rate of 3 percent or more a year, which the Population Reference bureau calls a near explosion rate.

Offensive Lobbying Grows Far Too Fast

For the past several years even beyond the former Truman administration there has been a disconcerting growth in lobbying influence or at least in efforts made by lobbyists to control too much legislation.

This also has extended to an unpleasant degree into many of our state legislatures.

There is justification and often good reason for some honest lobbying on some important issues but it is becoming apparent to the public that some of the influence which certain lobbyists exert goes beyond this.

Some legislators report that they are kept busy dodging the growing herd of paid lobbyists to an extent that it interferes with their time in attempting to see many people who have reason to present their individual or community views with reference to some pieces of legislation.

This brings out the point made recently by one prominent Ohio newspaper to the effect that if the people think some of their freedoms are slipping away they might examine more closely the extent to which powerful lobbies are threatening the legislative branches of government both state and federal. This is something that only the people themselves—the voters—can correct.

If the public sits idly by and watches the dangerous developments without so much as raising its voice, if it becomes so indifferent that the people think such goings-on are a part of the modern political game then one of these days they'll wake up and find that their representative government has passed into the hands of the lobbies.

If it weren't so serious it would be humorous the way the big lobbying interests earnestly proclaim that "no strings are attached" to their "gifts." How naive do these interests think the American people are?

They are not naive; but sadly they are not vocal enough. They do not make themselves heard at the ballot box. They forget too easily.

Unfortunately the word seems to be spreading that for a price many lawmakers can be "had. This of course isn't true of all. To be sure there are many honest upright sincere legislators who are trying to follow the dictates of their consciences in serving the people. But the list of men with courage—the kind that John F. Kennedy spoke of in his book "Profiles in Courage"—is not as impressive as it should be.

The people will have to accept their part of the responsibility for whatever deterioration is threatening the legislative arm of their government—national or state.

Burgess and MacLean Questions

By George Sokolsky

Khrushchev has a typical Russian sense of humor, the basis of which is always raw impudence. He exhibited Burgess and MacLean for five minutes just to say, "No! What the hell!"

Justly they were not free men or they would have stayed 10 minutes or half an hour. Their schedule was five minutes and that is all they had. That they are treated as slaves—intellectual slaves—is apparent from the nature of their interview.

For several years now, I have been writing about these fellows and I have been seeking out their relationships in our State Department. The communist party is universal and a member is under party discipline within his own cell. While they were in the United States, Burgess and MacLean were undoubtedly in a cell in Washington which reported to a commissar who received direct orders from Moscow or from a Moscow courier. Sooner or later, some Congressional committee, more by accident than by keen investigation, will trip across some American member of that cell and we shall have the picture of an espionage system involving our State Department and the British Foreign Office. When that cell is found, it will startle many complacent Americans who insist that such things are not possible.

They are not only possible but they have happened and Burgess and MacLean, like a vaudeville team, popped up for five minutes just to show to the world that the Russians have spies in high places and no two could have been higher than Burgess and MacLean except Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White, who for all we know, may have been part of the same cell.

The British have always been proud of their civil service and of their intelligence services. They used to boast that their intelligence was the best in the world. It certainly was good. During World War II, they fell down. Dr. Klaus Fuchs, Dr. Alan Nunn May, the Canadian spy ring, the Australian spy ring and Burgess and MacLean are examples—examples only—of defective intelligence. The British will now take this situation in hand, too late, but with singular efficiency and they will clean it up. They will discover exactly what happened. There will be no cry of McCarthyism because they will do it quietly and when it is all over, a white paper will be issued to Parliament which will have to be truthful because the opposition party will accept nothing less.

Meanwhile, our own Eastland committee will get onto the job of trying to discover who in the State Department was the partner of Burgess and MacLean. It will be very unwise for the State Department, in an election year, to try to cover up. The arguments between the Department and the committee over documents and executive orders will do the Republican party no good politically. The people will wonder why anybody should want to protect a partner of Burgess and MacLean no matter who it might be. And there is always the danger that what they are trying to hide in this country will come out in some other country.

That is the essential weakness in all the suppressions of the news, in the hiding of facts, in the slanting of history that goes on these days. What is suppressed in one country comes out in another. Slanted history does not stand up against exposed facts. Million of dollars can be spent to confuse the peoples' minds, but a little event occurs, like Burgess and MacLean showing up for five minutes in a dramatic presentation of their betrayal of their country and ours and all the propagandistic lies of several years fade before the powerful light of truth.

So it will be with this entire question of communist infiltration of American life. Many say, "Why not drop the subject? We have heard enough about it. Let us turn to something else." But the subject persists because of the great damage that has been done. As it is disclosed, it becomes necessary to know how these people managed to do the damage. How did men like Burgess and MacLean, Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White get into positions where they could do so much harm to two such powerful nations? It is this search that does not stop because it is impossible for it to cease.

Ohio Readies New Campaign To Plant Vast Number Trees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—You're going to hear a lot about trees during the next few months, no matter where you live in Ohio.

More than 100 organizations taking part in the 1956 "Plant Ohio" program today have at hand literature on which to base local campaigns aimed at getting 25 million new trees planted this year in the Buckeye State.

The campaign material is from the desk of William Finley, chairman of the Governor's Plant Ohio Executive Committee. Finley is a forestry expert at Battelle Memorial Institute here, large private research organization.

State headquarters of the organizations will pass the literature on to local units charged with getting campaigns in their cities and towns started quickly.

County agricultural extension agents will be county chairmen of the campaign, coordinating efforts of veterans organizations, trade associations, farm organizations, community service clubs, garden clubs, colleges and institutions, industries, schools, governmental units, soil conservation districts and conservation clubs.

"The planting season will be in full swing in a few weeks," Finley wrote in a letter accompanying the literature. "The time is now. Planting stock of every type should be ordered without delay."

The state wants trees planted both on an individual and whole-sale basis. Persons wanting to plant large number of trees not to be used for shade or ornamental purposes can buy them from state nurseries at Marietta, Zanesville and Green Springs in Sandusky County.

The minimum order is 500 trees. Application blanks are available at district offices of the Department of Natural Resources, county agricultural agents offices, farm foresters offices, soil conservation service offices and at forest nurseries.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche has this to say about the "Plant Ohio" program, in a letter to all Ohio residents: "It is difficult to conceive of any comparable project which will afford greater immediate personal enjoyment, and more lasting benefit to every segment of our society. Manifestly, the necessity for a continued program for the restoration of vegetative cover in Ohio is obvious and is everywhere apparent."

The "Plant Ohio" program began in 1952 during a meeting in the governor's office to make Arbor Day plans.

"Why can't we talk less and do something that will be a lasting benefit long after we are gone?" the governor asked. "Let's plant millions of trees in lawns, parks, around factories and in new forests."

That year 15,300,000 new trees were planted before the supply ran out. The figure rose to 23,805,400 in 1954, dropped 3 million last year.

O. A. Alderman, chief of the state forestry division, says the production of trees now seems adequate. The main problem is to persuade disinterested landowners to plant trees and help those who can't afford the expense, he believes.

If all the land in Ohio that needs trees got them, the full capacity of state nurseries would be used up for 33 years. He estimates the need at 500 million trees for one-half million acres of land in Ohio that should be planted.

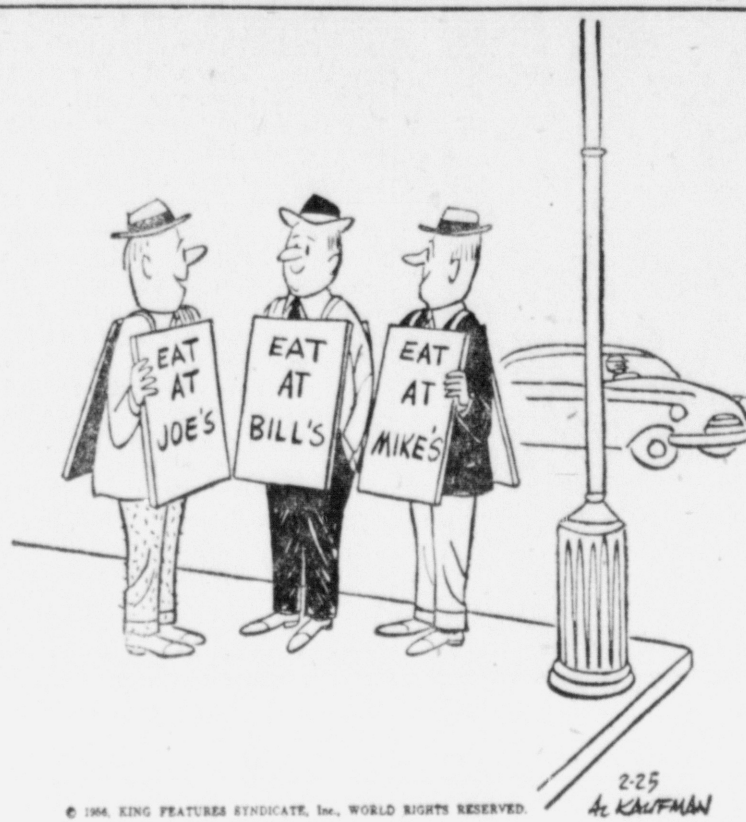

"Plant Ohio" literature outlines plans for church, industrial and community beautification. It also tells how schools or communities can develop their own forests.

Finley lists benefits of community beautification as better living, better business, better health and recreation, higher property values and greater civic pride.

Drink Milk Daily Store It Properly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

What's one of your best food buys? That's an easy one to answer. It's milk—and more milk.

No other food gives you so much nutritional value at such a low cost. Economy-minded homemakers realize that no other single food is so important in the family's daily menus.

Especially important Milk, of course, is especially important for growing children. A quart a day will help build good teeth, strong bones, firm muscles.

But just because you are an adult is no reason to omit milk from your diet. At least a pint a day is a "must" for everyone.

Expectant mothers and those already nursing babies should have a quart per day.

You do not have to obtain your daily quota by drinking all of it, although I can't imagine why you wouldn't want to drink several glasses a day.

Creamed Dishes

Some of it can be used with cereals or in creamed vegetables, cream soups, puddings and other cooked dishes. Ice cream and cheese are milk products and can be eaten several times a week.

Accustomed as most of you housewives are to handling milk, I think I still might be able to give you a few tips about protecting it right in your own home.

For one thing, do not let milk stand on the porch in the bottle. If it is in a glass container, light destroys some of the vitamin B-2 or riboflavin content.

Keep it in the refrigerator when not in use.

When storing milk in the refrigerator, keep it in the colder part—below 50 degrees.

It is probably a good idea to keep condensed and dried milk in the refrigerator, too. I think you will find they keep longer this way.

Make sure that odorous foods such as onions, fish, cabbage, melons and the like are stored in a distant section of the refrigerator.

One more thing. Do not pour leftover milk back into the bottle or carton. Use it for cooking. It does not cost much, but medical bills do.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. J. C.: Could exercise be harmful for one suffering from hardening of the arteries?

Answer: Exercise in moderation probably would not be harmful for one suffering from hardening of the arteries. It would depend entirely upon the condition of the heart and the amount of hardening that has occurred.

Your physician, after careful examination, will be able to tell you the exact amount of exercise you ought to take.

Ohio's Dillon Dam Project Revived Again In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Engineers hope to silence objections to completion of Dillon Dam above Zanesville, Ohio, with a minor revision in construction plans.

The change, a top engineer said today, would entail building a dike around the Wiant Nursery Co.'s seven acres near the Licking River.

Wiant Nursery, along with a number of Licking County farmers, has opposed finishing the dam for fear the backed up water would flood out property on the river.

Maj. Gen. Emerson C. Itchner, assistant chief of engineers, said the dike "would give the nursery more protection than it has now from flood waters."

The dike would range in height from two to 10 feet, varying according to the contour of the ground.

As for others living along the Licking River, Itchner reported the government would have to buy outright only 265 acres of their property for the reservoir.

THE REMAINDER of the project's 2,385 acres in Licking County would be flooded only once every 20 to 200 years, he said.

The government, he said, would take only "flood easement" on this property, and the land could be worked by their owners most of the time.

"If these people realized how little they would be inconvenienced, I don't think they would oppose it so much," said Itchner.

Dillon Dam has been a hardy perennial in Congress for years. The government has spent $9 million on the project, but estimates it would cost $18 million more to finish it.

President Eisenhower asked for $2 million to resume work on Dillon last year. Congress refused and he did not renew the request.

But a new movement is under way to revive Dillon. A delegation from Zanesville met this week with 15 Ohio House members and Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Bender (R-Ohio) to solicit their support.

Present strategy, as outlined by Rep. Henderson (R-Ohio), whose district includes Dillon, may be to try to amend an appropriation bill in the Senate to obtain money for the project.

Henderson said the only one in Congress he knows of who opposes Dillon is Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio), whose district covers Licking.

State Slow In Getting Hunting Fees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Examiners reported today that money from sale of hunting and fishing licenses was slow in coming to the state from agents and some courts that imposed fines for violations.

Reports to State Auditor James A. Rhodes covered hunting license transactions between September 1, 1953, and Aug. 31, 1954. Reports on fishing license transactions covered the period between March 1, 1953, and Feb. 28, 1954.

Examiners audited accounts of the division of wildlife in the department of natural resources. Department regulations require reports by the 10th of each month on sale of hunting and fishing permits. On Sept. 8, 1954, a total of $122,938 was due the license account, examiners said. The department spent a total of $3,337,342 during the year, the audit showed.

"The balance of fines due the department from the courts which collected same are larger than they should be according to law," examiners added.

Rhodes commended activities of sportsmen's clubs whose agents and sub-agents account for 56 per cent of license sales during a year.

"Why can't we talk less and do something that will be a lasting benefit long after we are gone?" the governor asked. "Let's plant millions of trees in lawns, parks, around factories and in new forests."

That year 15,300,000 new trees were planted before the supply ran out. The figure rose to 23,805,400 in 1954, dropped 3 million last year.

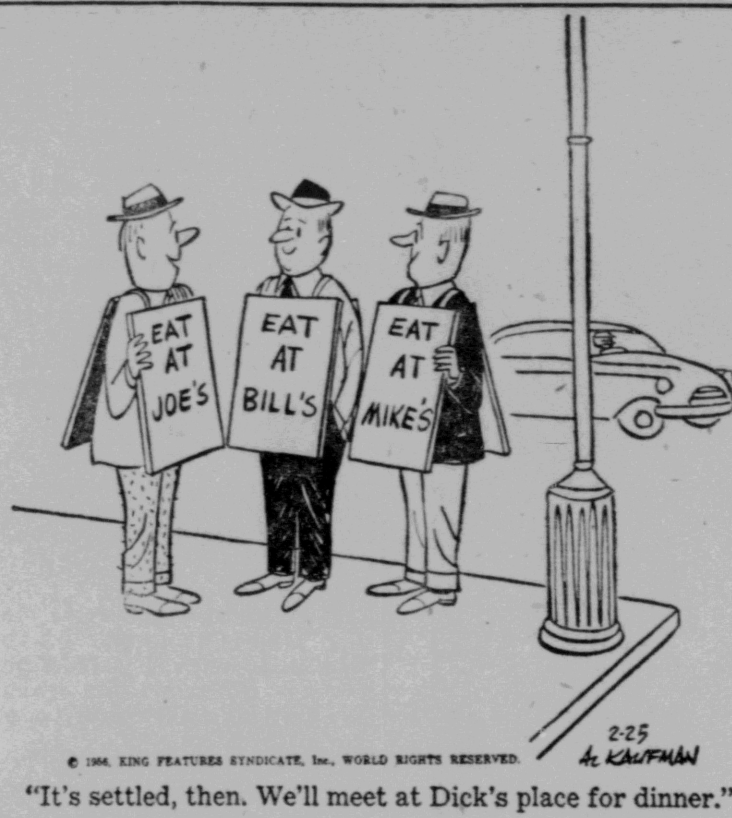

O. A. Alderman, chief of the state forestry division, says the production of trees now seems adequate. The main problem is to persuade disinterested landowners to plant trees and help those who can't afford the expense, he believes.

If all the land in Ohio that needs trees got them, the full capacity of state nurseries would be used for 33 years. He estimates the need at 500 million trees for one-half million acres of land in Ohio that should be planted.

"Plant Ohio" literature outlines plans for church, industrial and community beautification. It also tells how schools or communities can develop their own forests.

Finley lists benefits of community beautification as better living, better business, better health and recreation, higher property values and greater civic pride.

Drink Milk Daily Store It Properly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

What's one of your best food buys? That's an easy one to answer. It's milk—and more milk.

No other food gives you so much nutritional value at such a low cost. Economy-minded homemakers realize that no other single food is so important in the family's daily menus.

Especially Important

Milk, of course, is especially important for growing children. A quart a day will help build good teeth, strong bones, firm muscles.

But just because you are an adult is no reason to omit milk from your diet. At least a pint a day is a "must" for everyone.

Expectant mothers and those already nursing babies should have a quart per day.

You do not have to obtain your daily quota by drinking all of it, although I can't imagine why you wouldn't want to drink several glasses a day.

Some of it can be used with cereals or in creamed vegetables, cream soups, puddings and other cooked dishes. Ice cream and cheese are milk products and can be eaten several times a week.

Accustomed as most of you housewives are to handling milk, I think I still might be able to give you a few tips about protecting it right in your own home.

For one thing, do not let milk stand on the porch in the bottle. If it is in a glass container, light destroys some of the vitamin B-2 or riboflavin content.

Keep it in the refrigerator when not in use.

When storing milk in the refrigerator, keep it in the colder part—below 50 degrees.

It is probably a good idea to keep condensed and dried milk in the refrigerator, too. I think you will find they keep longer this way.

Make sure that odoriferous foods such as onions, fish, cabbage, melons and the like are stored in a distant section of the refrigerator.

One more thing. Do not pour leftover milk back into the bottle or carton. Use it for cooking. It does not cost much, but medical bills do.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. J. C.: Could exercise be harmful for one suffering from hardening of the arteries?

Answer: Exercise in moderation probably would not be harmful for one suffering from hardening of the arteries. It would depend entirely upon the condition of the heart and the amount of hardening that has occurred.

Your physician, after careful examination, will be able to tell you the exact amount of exercise you ought to take.

Net Income For Companies Shows Increase

1955 Proven Good Year For American Business Firms

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine out of ten corporations are turning in better profit reports today than a year ago. Their increase in net income after taxes in 1955 averages about one-third higher than 1954. For many of them the prospects of continuing on the upgrade are good for the first half of 1956.

So far, 616 corporations—of all sizes, and scattered through most major industries—have reported on their 1955 operations. The number will swell rapidly in coming days.

But take the 616 as representative of what is to come, and you find only 58 of them reporting a decline in earnings.

Even in the best of boom times, however, there are laggards. Eight of the 616 operated at a net loss last year. In 1954 there were 17 of the 616 making that sad admission.

The 616 show combined net profits after taxes of $10,010,849,536. In 1954 the same 616 had total earnings of $7,595,025,350. The increase is $2,415,824,186, or 31.8 per cent.

The gain for the U. S. treasury is roughly the same, since corporations put aside for federal income taxes about the same amount they report as net profits.

Leading the parade in percentage gains over the previous year are those industries who suffered most from the 1954 recession or those tied in with the big boom in the auto industry.

The big gainers include: Meat packers, steel and iron, rail equipment, airlines, textiles and apparel, autos and trucks, coal, mining and metalworking.

Doing better than the average were: Farm equipment, glass, paint, auto suppliers, railroads, chemicals, drugs.

Industrials as a whole did better than the utilities and rails. The 406 industrial companies averaged 37.2 per cent higher than the previous year. The railroads averaged 35.4 per cent better—striking gains by some roads were offset by five carriers showing decreased earnings due to floods or other special causes. The regulated utilities followed their usual quiet course for an average increase of 12.9 per cent.

Profit prospects in the first three months of 1956 appear good for most corporations. Some industries predict that the entire first half of the year will show fatter profits than 1955.

But the picture can change quickly. Corporate managers tell you that in boom years profits rise at a steeper percentage rate than sales. But with a business downturn profits dry up faster than sales.

And if there's one thing certain about the American economy it's this: It keeps changing.

LONDON (AP)—A slow thaw spread fearsome landslides and flood threats over parts of southern Europe today. The rest of the continent shivered, with little sign of a break in the worst winter anybody could remember.

Ohio's Dillon Dam Project Revived Again In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Engineers hope to silence objections to completion of Dillon Dam above Zanesville, Ohio, with a minor revision in construction plans.

The change, a top engineer said today, would entail building a dike around the Wiant Nursery Co.'s seven acres near the Licking River.

Wiant Nursery, along with a number of Licking County farmers, has opposed finishing the dam for fear the backed up water would flood out property on the river.

Maj. Gen. Emerson C. Itschner, assistant chief of engineers, said the dike "would give the nursery more protection than it has now from flood waters."

The dike would range in height from two to 10 feet, varying according to the contour of the ground.

As for others living along the Licking River, Itschner reported the government would have to buy outright only 265 acres of their property for the reservoir.

THE REMAINDER of the project's 2,385 acres in Licking County would be flooded only once every 20 to 200 years, he said.

The government, he said, would take only "flood easement" on this property, and the land could be worked by their owners most of the time.

"If these people realized how little they would be inconvenienced, I don't think they would oppose it so much," said Itschner.

Dillon Dam has been a hardy perennial in Congress for years. The government has spent $9 million on the project, but estimates it would cost $18 million more to finish it.

President Eisenhower asked for $2 million to resume work on Dillon last year. Congress refused and he did not renew the request.

But a new movement is under way to revive Dillon.

A delegation from Zanesville met

this week with 15 Ohio House members and Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Bender (R-Ohio) to solicit their support.

Present strategy, as outlined by Rep. Henderson (R-Ohio), whose district includes Dillon, may be to try to amend an appropriation bill in the Senate to obtain money for the project.

Henderson said the only one in Congress he knows of who opposes Dillon is Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio), whose district covers Licking.

Miss McLean Is Hostess To Members Of WCTU

Miss Fannie McLean was a most gracious hostess, Friday afternoon, when she entertained members of the Washington C. H. WCTU, with a most gratifying attendance.

Mrs. John G. Jordan, president, presided and three hymns were sung to open the meeting with Mrs. Frank Creamer accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. Thomas Watts led in the devotion service—the worship theme being "Road Markers". She said in part—"we have road markers to guide us as we travel over the highways throughout many lands—that God is our supreme road marker, on our spiritual highway of life and that we, too, become road markers for others, by setting the right example of living for those who follow in our path", and closed with a fitting poem.

Mrs. B. E. Kelley, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. John Case read the treasurer's report in the absence of Mrs. Elza Sanderson who is confined to her home by illness and to whom a round robin card was sent. Both reports were accepted.

Mrs. Jordan reported on research she had made concerning road signs on safe driving and it was voted to purchase two sets, of two signs each, and have them erected at vantage points on the highway in the county.

It was also decided to purchase a book of special interest to be reviewed at the April meeting.

Mrs. Robert F. Wilson had charge of the program and showed an excellent picture of Abraham Lincoln as one of the great leaders of our country and presented Mrs. Homer G. Garringer in a most interesting paper on "Seven Incidents in the Life of Frances E. Willard", this being the Willard Memorial month.

Many facts were given from the "Journal" of Miss Willard which was in fact her daily diary, which showed she was of a most decisive mind, also of her teachings in colleges for women. She always protected the rights for the best of everyone concerned. Many and varied were her experiences and her name went down in history as the spirit of "Temperance" in her never ceasing work for this great cause.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Garringer for her informative paper.

Another chapter of the study book "The Way to Sobriety," was outlined by Mrs. John Case and those assisting in bringing points of interest in answering questions by Mrs. Case were: Mrs. Minnie Smith, Miss Fannie McLean, Mrs. B. E. Kelley, Mrs. Homer G. Garringer, Mrs. Arch O. Riber, Mrs. Robert F. Wilson, Mrs. Earl Scott, Mrs. A. S. Stemler, Mrs. Carson S. Maddux, Mrs. James F. Wilson, Mrs. Ella Willis, Mrs. Lela L. Lack Of Engineers, Steel Pinches Ohio Highway Plans

COLUMBUS (AP)—Shortages of steel and engineers will delay Ohio's road-building program this year, the state highway director, Samuel Linzell said yesterday.

Linzell said the steel picture is "just as bad as it ever was" and has made it necessary to allow contractors from three to six additional months more time to finish "virtually every project involving major structures."

The engineer picture is brighter, the director said, but not bright enough. The department recently offered beginning engineers higher starting salaries and titles with more prestige. The department also is interviewing engineering students, who will graduate this year to try to get them to come to Ohio and have a part in building Ohio roads.

The highway department expects fewer rolled shapes of steel will be used in its road program and that other types will be substituted because of the scarcity of that type of steel product.

Few highway road signs being bought now are made of steel because the department is getting no bids on markers of that metal, Linzell said. Most highway signs now are made of aluminum.

One bright picture in the road building program is that of cement supply. Linzell said that last year, practically every cement plant in Ohio expanded its capacity. While the department has received no official notice of a cement price increase, it has paid 25 cents per barrel more for cement bought this year.

A source familiar with the cement industry said some plants have increased prices from 10 to 25 cents a barrel and other plants are expected to follow suit.

Linzell and West Virginia highway officials are trying to agree on the hiring of a consulting engineer to design a plan for a bridge from Bridgeport to Wheeling Island on the Ohio River.

West Virginia officials said re-

CONFUSED

I used to think I had
A legion of friends but I
Have seen so many turn away
When we didn't see eye to eye;
The ones that I trusted most
And thought the most sincere,
Were as pharasaical as

The ones with the least veneer.
I oft-times wonder if
I would have one loyal friend
Who would stand by me
If some gossip's tongue
And idle tale should vend;
There is an axiom
I wish I could fulfill,—

"If I cannot speak well
Of my fellow man,
I will say no word of ill."
Unworthy Am I to judge
The foibles and faults of man;
But I wonder the narrow gauge
Of friendship's component span;
We are too prone to take
Offense at some fancied wrong;
True friendship is as strong
As cables of steel are strong.

Speaker Named For Affair Here

National Convention Of Symposiarch Set

Judge Robert N. Gorman, of Cincinnati and one of the prominent jurists of Ohio, is to be the principal speaker at the banquet that will bring the two-day national convention of the Order of Symposiarch in Washington C. H. to a close the evening of April 7.

Belford F. Carpenter, the national president, said he was notified Friday afternoon by Pearce Wright, the national executive secretary, from the national headquarters in Columbus that Judge Gorman had accepted the invitation to speak following the banquet. His subject is to be "The Visiting Firemen," Wright said.

Just how many will come to Washington C. H. for the gathering won't be known until just before the convention, the president said. However, Wright expressed the belief that around 150 men would come from six or seven mid-western states.

One of the highlights of the two-day meeting will be the election of national officers the afternoon of the final day. They are to be installed at ceremonies that night. William Junk of the Washington C. H. chapter probably will conduct the rather informal installation ceremony.

Judge Max G. Dice, the president of the Washington C. H. chapter, is to be the master of ceremonies for the after-dinner program.

Actually, all of the business of the convention is to be packed into the second day with a meeting of the national board of directors first and the general convention session afterward in the afternoon.

Both of these meetings, as well as the Saturday evening banquet, are to be held at the Country Club.

Since many of the visitors will be coming from some distance and arrive Friday, arrangements have been made for a get-together and dinner at the Country Club Friday night.

Westinghouse Aides Test Idle Pay Law

COLUMBUS (AP)—Test applications for unemployment compensation were filed yesterday by two striking employees of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. They immediately were turned down, opening the way for court ruling.

The applications were filed with the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation by Joseph DeCarlo, 27, and Bernard Granger, 22, both of Columbus. They have been out of work since the Westinghouse strike began Oct. 17.

Their applications were turned down by Paul Whitmer, head of the application service section, on the basis of an Oct. 16 ruling that the dispute is not a lockout.

It was also decided to purchase a book of special interest to be reviewed at the April meeting.

Mrs. Robert F. Wilson had charge of the program and showed an excellent picture of Abraham Lincoln as one of the great leaders of our country and presented Mrs. Homer G. Garringer in a most interesting paper on "Seven Incidents in the Life of Frances E. Willard", this being the Willard Memorial month.

Many facts were given from the "Journal" of Miss Willard which was in fact her daily diary, which showed she was of a most decisive mind, also of her teachings in colleges for women. She always protected the rights for the best of everyone concerned. Many and varied were her experiences and her name went down in history as the spirit of "Temperance" in her never ceasing work for this great cause.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Garringer for her informative paper.

Another chapter of the study book "The Way to Sobriety," was outlined by Mrs. John Case and those assisting in bringing points of interest in answering questions by Mrs. Case were: Mrs. Minnie Smith, Miss Fannie McLean, Mrs. B. E. Kelley, Mrs. Homer G. Garringer, Mrs. Arch O. Riber, Mrs. Robert F. Wilson, Mrs. Earl Scott, Mrs. A. S. Stemler, Mrs. Carson S. Maddux, Mrs. James F. Wilson, Mrs. Ella Willis, Mrs. Lela L. Lack Of Engineers, Steel Pinches Ohio Highway Plans

COLUMBUS (AP) — Shortages of steel and engineers will delay Ohio's road-building program this year, the state highway director, Samuel Linnell said yesterday.

Linnell said the steel picture is "just as bad as it ever was" and has made it necessary to allow contractors from three to six additional months more time to finish "virtually every project involving major structures."

The engineer picture is brighter, the director said, but not bright enough. The department recently offered beginning engineers higher starting salaries and titles with more prestige. The department also is interviewing engineering students, who will graduate this year to try to get them to come to Ohio and have a part in building Ohio roads.

The highway department expects fewer rolled shapes of steel will be used in its road program and that other types will be substituted because of the scarcity of that type of steel product.

Few highway road signs being bought now are made of steel because the department is getting no bids on markers of that metal, Linnell said. Most highway signs now are made of aluminum.

One bright picture in the road building program is that of cement supply. Linnell said that last year, practically every cement plant in Ohio expanded its capacity. While the department has received no official notice of a cement price increase, it has paid 25 cents per barrel more for cement bought this year.

A source familiar with the cement industry said some plants have increased prices from 10 to 25 cents a barrel and other plants are expected to follow suit.

Linnell and West Virginia highway officials are trying to agree on the hiring of a consulting engineer to design a plan for a bridge from Bridgeport to Wheeling Island on the Ohio River.

West Virginia officials said recently they would give the project top consideration if federal funds become available to help finance it.

Linnell announced he is hiring attorneys to work with his 12 division engineers in acquiring land needed for road projects. The lawyers will start at $360 a month and have Civil Service status.

They will enable division engineers to get away from much routine right-of-way legal work and devote more of their time to actually building roads, Linnell said.

Poet's Corner

CONFUSED

I used to think I had
A legion of friends but I
Have seen so many turn away
When we didn't see eye to eye;
The ones that I trusted most
And thought the most sincere,
Were as pharisaical as

The ones with the least veneer.
I oft-times wonder if
I would have one loyal friend
Who would stand by me
If some gossip's tongue
And idle tale should vend;
There is an axiom
I wish I could fulfill—
"If I cannot speak well
Of my fellow man,
I will say no word of ill."

Unworthy Am I to judge
The foibles and faults of man;
But I wonder the narrow gauge
Of friendship's component span;
We are too prone to take
Offense at some fancied wrong;
True friendship is as strong
As cables of steel are strong.

Speaker Named For Affair Here

National Convention Of Sympsiarch Set

Judge Robert N. Gorman, of Cincinnati and one of the prominent jurists of Ohio, is to be the principal speaker at the banquet that will bring the two-day national convention of the Order of Sympsiarch in Washington C. H. to a close the evening of April 7.

Belford F. Carpenter, the national president, said he was notified Friday afternoon by Pearce Wright, the national executive-secretary, from the national headquarters in Columbus that Judge Gorman had accepted the invitation to speak following the banquet. His subject is to be "The Visiting Firemen," Wright said.

Just how many will come to Washington C. H. for the gathering won't be known until just before the convention, the president said. However, Wright expressed the belief that around 150 men would come from six or seven mid-western states.

One of the highlights of the two-day meeting will be the election of national officers the afternoon of the final day. They are to be installed at ceremonies that night. William Junk of the Washington C. H. chapter probably will conduct the rather informal installation ceremony.

Judge Max G. Dice, the president of the Washington C. H. chapter, is to be the master of ceremonies for the after-dinner program.

Actually, all of the business of the convention is to be packed into the second day with a meeting of the national board of directors first and the general convention session afterward in the afternoon.

Both of these meetings, as well as the Saturday evening banquet, are to be held at the Country Club.

Since many of the visitors will be coming from some distance and arrive Friday, arrangements have been made for a get-together and dinner at the Country Club Friday night.

Westinghouse Aides Test Idle Pay Law

COLUMBUS (AP) — Test applications for unemployment compensation were filed yesterday by two striking employees of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. They immediately were turned down, opening the way for court ruling.

The applications were filed with the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation by Joseph DeCarlo, 27, and Bernard Granger, 22, both of Columbus. They have been out of work since the Westinghouse strike began Oct. 17.

Their applications were turned down by Paul Whitmer, head of the application service section, on the basis of an Oct. 16 ruling that the dispute is not a lockout.

Spotlight Put on Future Farmers Here

Two Chapters In County Have Full Schedules

This week, the activities of the 383,000 boys who are members of the Future Farmers of America have been spotlighted; This has been FFA Week.

Members of the FFA are the nation's high school students enrolled in vocational agriculture courses. The FFA program is designed to stimulate leadership qualities and good citizenship for the boys, as well as to stimulate their studies and their work toward better farming.

Fayette County's two FFA chapters, at the Washington C. H. and Jeffersonville high schools, both have had full schedules of activities ranging from land judging contests to competitions with other chapters in the area.

The 59 Fayette County Future Farmers are among 11,542 in Ohio. The Washington C. H. chapter of 28 boys is led by Don Mercer, the WHS vo-ag instructor.

Officers are Roger Sollars, president; David Whiteside, vice president; Robert Caplinger, secretary; Mike Cunningham, treasurer; John Rhoad, reporter; Roger McLean, sentinel, and Dan Schlicher, student advisor.

THE ADVISOR of the 31-member Jeffersonville Chapter is H. H. Coffey, vo-ag instructor at Jeffersonville High School.

The officers are Eldon Smith, president; Leroy Snyder, vice president; Ronald Sears, treasurer; Dan Hopkins, secretary; Leroy Garringer, reporter; Don Carr, sentinel, and Max Harlan, student advisor.

Backbone of the program for both chapters is the project work. Each year, the boys lay out an ambitious program for themselves, including work on livestock, grain, land improvement or any of a dozen other fields.

But the project work is not all of it. Both chapters hold a series of events climaxed by their annual banquets in the Spring.

Future Farmers choose the week of Washington's Birthday each year for the observance of FFA Week. Though Washington is remembered as "the father of his country," his first love was his farm at Mt. Vernon. There, he was one of the first farmers in the nation to practice contour planting, crop rotation, fertilization and other soil improvement practices.

It was more than a century after the death of Washington that many of the sound agricultural practices he advocated were put into effect.

Brown Offers 4-Point Plan For Colleges

WEST UNION, Ohio (AP) — Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Republican candidate for the nomination for governor, declared at nearby Peebles last night that colleges in Ohio will become overcrowded if steps are not taken to correct the situation.

Brown spoke at a meeting of youth leaders.

He said the overcrowding will result from the high birth rate and the increasing percentage of high school graduates seeking higher education.

To meet the problem, he proposed a four-point program. It called for establishment of more junior colleges, new state colleges, branches of existing state schools in new locations and enlargement of present state universities other than Ohio State University.

On the latter point, Brown said the president of Ohio State has said that school should maintain "a conservative enrollment" in its undergraduate schools.

"We must not close the door to any Ohioan with the ability and the desire to seek higher education," Brown said.

Low Bid Received For Clinton Base

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A low bid of $1,035,228.39 on a contract for Continental Air Command facilities at the Clinton County, Ohio, Air Force Base, was submitted yesterday by W. L. Johnson Construction Co., and Associates of Columbus.

Eight firms bid on the project which will include construction of fire and pump stations, four underground gasoline storage tanks holding 25,000 gallons each, parking apron and three taxiways. The parking apron will require 77,000 square yards of concrete and one taxiway 26,000 square yards. The U. S. Engineers estimate for the work was $1,105,335.20. Bids ranged as high as $1,411,391.95.

Film Actress Suing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film actress Pier Angeli, 23, seeks $208,410 damages from Western Air Lines for injuries she says she suffered on a flight to Palm Springs, Calif., last year.

The suit also named stewardess Patricia Duke. The actress, wife of singer Vic Damone, claims she was seriously injured in a fall in the airliner's rest room because she was not warned of rough weather.

California GOPsters In Accord On Poll

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's Republican Big Three presented an unusual harmony front today in teaming behind a state delegation pledged to President Eisenhower.

Gov. Goodwin Knight, giving up plans to control the state, held out the political olive branch.

Vice President Nixon and Sen. Knowland, possible rivals for the presidential nomination, quickly accepted it.

That peace is found on the assumption that Eisenhower will run. There was no mention that the partnership would continue if the President does not run.

Tipsy Driving Dangers Now Cited by Science

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tipsy driving can be dangerous.

Science has the word of some "experts" who can speak without fear of prosecution.

Guy like Irwin L. Cohen, a medical student at the University of Louisville, who says of his experience:

"I had confidence but I couldn't perform. The wheels began to spin. Then I had a feeling of utter abandon. Someone was standing near the car. 'What the heck is he doing in my way?' I asked myself. I didn't care if I struck him."

Cohen was one of 16 persons used in a laboratory look at results obtained from the potent mixture of alcohol and gasoline.

Safe from the hazards of city streets and open roads, the subjects were transformed into bona fide drunk drivers in what was called "the first major and professional effort in the United States to get some documentary expression of what a given blood-alcohol concentration will do to a person's driving."

Each participant was fed varying doses of 100-proof bourbon and placed behind the wheel of a dual-control car to try his tipsy hand at different maneuvers. A sober driver was at the other wheel.

The Northwestern University Traffic Institute and the Southern Police Institute cooperated in the experiment, along with safety groups.

Drivers were scored on a multitude of points, both in the way they drove and in front of machines that tested their concentration.

When it was over, general comment proved the known facts. Norvin Vonderhite said: "My natural habits of driving were replaced by taking too many chances. I wasn't thinking enough of what to do next."

John R. Jones: "I felt a little slower and made a few more mistakes."

There were exceptions.

Like Air Force Maj Donald Burch, who said the whisky "relaxed me, where in other people it would have been very detrimental."

Just to be safe, however, Burch and all the others were taken home in police cruisers.

Fugitive Commie Plans Surrender

NEW YORK (AP) — A letter purporting to be from Gilbert Green, a top Communist who has been a fugitive for five years, said today he will surrender Monday.

The letter did not reveal Green's whereabouts. It was received by major news services today and was postmarked at 10:30 o'clock last night in New York City. It was signed "Gil Green."

Green, Illinois chairman of the party, was one of the 11 Communist leaders convicted in the memorable nine-month trial in 1949 on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

He failed to appear for sentencing July 2, 1951.

The letter said Green had decided to give himself up because "the main trend of the nation is no longer toward a new world war and megalomania. A new trend is evident."

Green, sentenced to three years, was one of four defendants who jumped bail of $20,000.

HENRY WINSTON, the party's organizational secretary, also is still at large.

The other two, Gus Hall, Ohio chairman, and Robert G. Thompson, were captured—Hall in Mexico in 1951 and Thompson in California in 1953.

The typewritten letter said: "On Monday, Feb. 27 at 12 noon I shall cease being a fugitive from justice and instead become its prisoner. At that time, I shall appear at Foley Square (location of the federal courthouse)

"New political winds are blowing."

Sales Taxes Due Even On Bad Debts

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals has ruled that a merchant must take the sales tax loss when merchandise for which tax stamps are given isn't paid for.

The board decided the question yesterday in a case involving Budd and Co., Columbus, a jewelry firm. The store claimed the state tax department should refund it $2,429 paid for sales tax stamps given out with merchandise that wasn't paid for or only partly paid for between 1951 and 1954.

State Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said the law doesn't provide for refunds in cases of bad debts.

There are about 130,000 toy-train hobbyists in the United States, says the National Geographic Society.

Low Bid Received For Clinton Base

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A low bid of $1,035,228.39 on a contract for Continental Air Command facilities at the Clinton County, Ohio, Air Force Base, was submitted yesterday by W. L. Johnson Construction Co., and Associates of Columbus.

Eight firms bid on the project which will include construction of fire and pump stations, four underground gasoline storage tanks holding 25,000 gallons each, parking apron and three taxiways. The parking apron will require 77,000 square yards of concrete and one taxiway 26,000 square yards.

The U. S. Engineers estimate for the work was $1,105,335.20. Bids ranged as high as $1,411,391.95.

Film Actress Suing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film actress Pier Angeli, 23, seeks $208,410 damages from Western Air Lines for injuries she says she suffered on a flight to Palm Springs, Calif., last year.

The suit also named stewardess Patricia Duke. The actress, wife of singer Vic Damone, claims she was seriously injured in a fall in the airliner's rest room because she was not warned of rough weather.

California GOPsters In Accord On Poll

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's Republican Big Three presented an unusual harmony front today in teaming behind a state delegation pledged to President Eisenhower.

Gov. Goodwin Knight, giving up plans to control the slate, held out the political olive branch.

Vice President Nixon and Sen. Knowland, possible rivals for the presidential nomination, quickly accepted it.

That peace is found on the assumption that Eisenhower will run. There was no mention that the partnership would continue if the President does not run.

Tipsy Driving Dangers Now Cited by Science

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tipsy driving can be dangerous.

Science has the word of some "experts" who can speak without fear of prosecution.

Guys like Irwin L. Cohen, a medical student at the University of Louisville, who says of his experience:

"I had confidence but I couldn't perform. The wheels began to spin. Then I had a feeling of utter abandon. Someone was standing near the car. 'What the heck is he doing in my way?' I asked myself. I didn't care if I struck him."

Cohen was one of 16 persons used in a laboratory look at results obtained from the potent mixture of alcohol and gasoline.

Safe from the hazards of city streets and open roads, the subjects were transformed into bona fide drunk drivers in what was called "the first major and professional effort in the United States to get some documentary expression of what a given blood-alcohol concentration will do to a person's driving."

Each participant was fed varying doses of 100-proof bourbon and placed behind the wheel of a dual-control car to try his tipsy hand at different maneuvers. A sober driver was at the other wheel.

The Northwestern University Traffic Institute and the Southern Police Institute cooperated in the experiment, along with safety groups.

Drivers were scored on a multitude of points, both in the way they drove and in front of machines that tested their concentration.

When it was over, general comment proved the known facts.

Norvin Vonderhite said: "My natural habits of driving were replaced by taking too many chances. I wasn't thinking enough of what to do next."

John R. Jones: "I felt a little slower and made a few more mistakes."

There were exceptions.

Like Air Force Maj. Donald Burch, who said the whisky "relaxed me, where in other people it would have been very detrimental."

Just to be safe, however, Burch and all the others were taken home in police cruisers.

Fugitive Commie Plans Surrender

NEW YORK (AP)—A letter purporting to be from Gilbert Green, a top Communist who has been a fugitive for five years, said today he will surrender Monday.

The letter did not reveal Green's whereabouts. It was received by major news services today and was postmarked at 10:30 o'clock last night in New York City. It was signed "Gil Green."

Green, Illinois chairman of the party, was one of the 11 Communist leaders convicted in the memorable nine-month trial in 1949 on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

He failed to appear for sentencing July 2, 1951.

The letter said Green had decided to give himself up because "the main trend of the nation is no longer toward a new world war and mecarthism. A new trend is evident."

Green, sentenced to three years, was one of four defendants who jumped bail of $20,000.

HENRY WINSTON, the party's organizational secretary, also is still at large.

The other two, Gus Hall, Ohio chairman, and Robert G. Thompson, were captured—Hall in Mexico in 1951 and Thompson in California in 1953.

The typewritten letter said: "On Monday, Feb. 27 at 12 noon I shall cease being a fugitive from justice and instead become its prisoner. At that time, I shall appear at Foley Square (location of the federal courthouse)

"New political winds are blowing."

Sales Taxes Due Even On Bad Debts

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals has ruled that a merchant must take the sales tax loss when merchandise for which tax stamps are given isn't paid for.

The board decided the question yesterday in a case involving Budd and Co., Columbus, a jewelry firm. The store claimed the state tax department should refund it $2,429 paid for sales tax stamps given out with merchandise that wasn't paid for or only partly paid for between 1951 and 1954.

State Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said the law doesn't provide for refunds in cases of bad debts.

There are about 130,000 toy-train hobbyists in the United States, says the National Geographic Society.

Fairground Track Busy Place With Race Horses in Training

By THE GATE
With the approaching 1956 harness racing season, bigger and better racing is the prospect.
How more world records can be set after the extreme burst of speed shown last season we really don't know, but with improved breeding and training more new ones will probably go into the records this year.

The beginning of new records gets its start each season with the hard grind which is now under way at the Fairgrounds track here.

Two-year-olds have been broken to the harness during the past months and now are being jogged each day. Aged horses also are getting in several miles each week going the wrong way of the track in the annual conditioning program.

It won't be long now before they will be turned and headed the right way, with each week or two, their time in circling the oval being lowered by seconds.

Weather conditions play an important part in how fast the training moves along. This season has been a bad one here. The freezing and thawing of the ground has left mud, not only on the track but around the barns.

Before too long the days will get warmer and results of the winter grind will begin to show. Owners and trainers then, will get their heads together and make the decisions as to which horses to continue training for the campaign ahead of them.

stalls at the Fayette County Fairgrounds are all full. The Eddie Cobb stable will be the first to move out and head for the East when Roosevelt Raceway in New York opens April 2.

At the present Cobb's stable holds 44 promising candidates. He has a good group of aged horses including: Plebe (1:59.3) purchased at Lexington last fall; Irish (2:02.2) whom he raced successfully last season; Honest Jerry (2:01.3) a starter in the Jug last September; Winged Guy (2:00.4) new to his stable this year and owned by Wayne Martin of Circleville, and Minnewashta, Trudy Spencer, Vandy Song, Jochovolo and Dr. Turney.

He also has several promising youngsters by Hodgen and Jerry The First, who stand at the farm just east of the city on the Columbus road.

Paul (Slim) Norris is tutoring Damon Baker's string which include: Dusty Flo (2:04.2); Vonian Lite (2:02.4); Lite Prone (2:06); Doc Silk (2:06) and Bitucote (2:06). In the newcomer's list are Hickory Major, the colt Baker donated to the Polio Foundation at a genetic Springs last fall then bought back for $1,500; Miss Prone and Miss Minton.

Eddie Kirk is training Victory Square, a full brother to Times Square, and has him staked heavily.

The Ohio Horse of the Year, Times Square, has not been brought to the training track yet. He is still at the Kirk farm near New Holland where he has been mated with several mares. Present plans call for him to begin training late in March or early in April.

The Rendezvous Stable of Ray Garrity has six head in training with Betty Astra, the good trotter with a record of 2:04.1, heading the list. Others are Irish Knight, Irish Knightdale, Betty Wick, Jerry Astra and The Rosecroft.

Dud Moon as usual has a full stable with Deacon Direct, High Society, Miss Abbe Stone, Liberty Boy and True Key. Moon confines his racing to the Ohio circuit with stops at Lebanon, Hilliards and the county fairs.

McKINLEY KIRK probably the best known in the harness sport as an owner, trainer, driver and sportsman has a full stable.

Of course he will come back with Adios Winnie (2:07.3); Flaming Arrow (2:02.4) and a full crop of two-year-olds. In the list are Stimulator, sister to Adios Winnie; Future Delight, sister to Flaming Arrow; Adios Special; Treasure Lady and Jet Ray by Frank Jackson.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two members of San Francisco's undefeated Dons, All-America Bill Russell and K. C. Jones, today were named to play in the annual East-West basketball game here March 31.

Russell and Jones who play on the 10-man Western team coached by Pete Newell of California, also will be members of the Olympic squad that will compete in the final trials at Kansas City next month.

The makeup of the Eastern team will be announced shortly by Coach Tom Blackburn of Dayton.

by Jerry The First and a two-year-old by Chief Council.

Ormond Dewey has turned his Gold Mine over to Eddie Boyer who is schooling the two-year-old by Wilmington out of Sally G. at Springfield.

The season is already underway with racing now in progress at the Bay Meadows track at San Mateo, Calif. Santa Anita opens on March 13 and Magnolia Park at New Orleans, La., set to go on March 15. Maywood, Ill., opens the same day as Roosevelt Raceway, on April 2. Lebanon Raceway opens May 12 and Hilliards on June 12. Championship Team's Stars Get Penalties

ASHLAND (AP)—A member of Shiloh's 1955 Richland County championship basketball squad and three other youths accused of stealing from automobiles following basketball games pleaded guilty to petty larceny charges in court here yesterday.

They are Eugene Hamman, the basketball player; Aubrey Ned Lofland and Charles Hughes, all 18, and Jack Barnd, 20.

Each was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to seven days in jail and placed on probation for one year. Barnd and Hughes started serving their sentences.

Each was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to seven days in jail and placed on probation for one year. Barnd and Hughes started serving their sentences immediately. Hamman and Lofland are still in school and will serve their time on weekends.

Three younger members of the basketball team accused of the same offense appeared before Juvenile Judge Myers Thursday.

Judge Myers sentenced a 16-year-old youth to an indefinite term in Boys Industrial School at Lancaster, but sent him to Ashland County jail pending a review of his case March 15. A 17-year-old teammate was placed on probation and ordered to attend church regularly. Another 16-year-old was dismissed with a warning.

Police said the youths admitted stealing blankets, tires and other accessories from automobiles following basketball games here.

Briton Admires Rocky's Right

NEW YORK (AP)—One hour after Rocky Castellani battered out a 10 round decision over England's Johnny Sullivan in Madison Square Garden last night they shook hands warmly in Castellani's dressing room.

"Nice fight, Rocky," said the 23-year-old Sullivan. "You fooled me with those right hand leads. I'm not used to a guy throwing a right hand without first seeing a left. I'll have to get used to that."

The right hand leads were the big difference in the 10-rounder. After Sullivan staggered the 12-5 favored Castellani in the second round, the more experienced, 28-year-old middleweight contender took the play away with his fast rights to the jaw.

Federal OK Given Ohio CD Network

COLUMBUS (AP)—Use of federal funds to help build a statewide direct radio network has been approved by the Civil Defense Administration.

The announcement yesterday said the federal expenditures would match a state appropriation. State funds have not yet been appropriated for the network which will have 88 radio stations.

count them up after this game. Both teams, he said, were "way off stride," with the estimated WHS shooting average from the floor an estimated 20 percent and the Greenfield average even worse.

"But we won," Russell said, "and that's what counts."

At the start of the game, it was not too certain that Washington C. H. boys would end on top. Greenfield opened the game by scoring a pair of points in the first 20 seconds of play. With the WHS boys not quite matching them basket for basket, the Tigers stood out in front at the end of the first quarter, 13-10.

The half ended just about the same way, with the spread cut down to a single point. The score stood at 21-20 in favor of Greenfield at intermission.

PUTTING on a preview of the final-quarter show, the Lions started their ball-stealing act late in the third quarter and wound up in front when the quarter ended, 33 to 31.

But that wasn't enough of an edge for the Lions. So they piled up enough points in the opening of the fourth quarter to go into a quiet slow-down of play toward the end of the game.

They continued scoring, at the same time working to keep possession of the ball.

With a Greenfield cage squad that include Knowles, Grubbs, Legg, Wiscup, Faltz and Florea, the two squads looked like a cut-down pair of football teams.

The fact that John Bainter, Fred Belles, John Sommers, David Lee, Jim Mason and Charles Dadds were on the court for the Lions added to the effect.

Washington C. H. and Greenfield football squads including those boys met back in October in a grid game won by the Greenfield squad 20 to 0.

That game was later forfeited to WHS when it was learned one of the Greenfield boys was ineligible to play.

And Washington C. H. won the football title.

EVEN TOM SWAIN, Dick English and Ronnie Knisley were playing a football brand of basketball Friday night.

It was clean. But it was also rough-and-tumble, with the roughness coming in mainly as part of the tumblers.

Neither squad was wasting time worrying about bumps and bruises. If holding possession or stealing the ball meant taking a spill, over they went.

This was the last game on the schedule for each team.

The reaction of both fans of both squads seemed an anti-climax after the Wilmington game. In that game, Feb. 14, the Lions clinched at least a share of the title with the front-running Hurricane.

After beating Wilmington 80-75, the team, coaches and crowd broke into a wildly excited mob.

The reaction following the title-winning game at Greenfield was a good deal more calm. Perhaps the fact that it was played in Greenfield kept the reaction down.

But for the 1956 South Central Ohio League championship victory, it was might quiet.

All Major College Scoring Records Nearing Collapse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four high-scoring basketball teams are menacing all three of the major college team shooting records as the 1955-56 season draws near the end.

NCAA service bureau statistics, including games of Feb. 18, indicate Morehead State of Kentucky is virtually certain to become the highest scoring major college team in history. George Washington is heading for a new mark in percentage of field goal accuracy and either Illinois or Southern Methodist could establish a new standard for free throw accuracy.

Morehead had average 97.4 points per game through Feb. 18. Needing only 141 in two remaining regular-season games to break Furman's record 95.3 average of last year, Morehead hit 99 in losing to Ohio U. Wednesday night.

The next three high scoring teams, Marshall (W. Va.) 93.1

average, Illinois, 92.3 and Memphis State all are headed for the post-season national collegiate tournament. Morehead doesn't have a tournament spot yet.

George Washington, which has led the nation in field goal percentages for three years, has a .503 average so far and aims to become the first team to score on more than half its attempts.

George Washington also leads in rebound recovery percentage with a .603 mark.

Illinois took the free throw accuracy lead from SMU last week with a .758 percentage to the Mustangs' .755. The record of .756 was set by Wake Forest last year.

San Francisco still leads in team defense, allowing its opponents an average of 50.4 points a game in winning 20 straight. Niagara has committed only 13.1 personal fouls a game, the lowest figure, and Bowling Green (Ky.) 23.2, the highest.

Only 4 More Cage Victories Needed By San Francisco '5'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Dons needed only four more victories today to complete an unbeaten regular season basketball schedule and North Carolina's Tarheels were assured of a tie for first place in the final Atlantic Coast Conference standings.

The top-ranked Dons crushed Santa Clara 80-44 Friday night for their 47th consecutive triumph. All-America Bill Russell rammed in 29 points, his highest total of the season. San Francisco's 80 points was its second highest total of the campaign and the 36-point spread the largest in its 21 victories this year.

Ninth-ranked North Carolina took a temporary lead in the hot ACC competition by beating Duke 73-65. The Tarheel advantage, however, will last only until tonight's North Carolina State-Wake Forest game.

Both N.C. State and Wake Forest are 10-3 in league action and the winner will deadlock North Carolina for first place. Should sixth-ranked State come through, it will automatically be top-seeded in the ACC tournament which gets underway in Raleigh next Thursday.

UCLA and Oklahoma City were the only other ranking college teams to see action Friday night.

The Bruins, No. 15, moved further along the road to the Pacific Coast Conference title by defeating Oregon 85-71 while Oklahoma City, No. 18, was tripped by Seattle 70-61 in a game between two NCAA "at-large" entries.

Duquesne, which will defend its NIT title in New York next month, walloped Villanova 80-61. In other games, Utah came from behind in the final minutes to beat Brigham Young 82-77 and virtually set up the Skyline Conference crown.

William and Mary downed Davidson 77-67. Penn staved off Brown's late rally to win 90-79 in the Ivy League and LaSalle routed Scranton 82-51.

San Francisco next plays college of the Pacific Feb. 28. Then come Pepperdine, Loyola (Calif.) and St. Mary's (Calif.). The Dons already have beaten each of these teams handily.

State's Cage Leaders Still Going Strong

COLUMBUS (AP)—Middletown and Willshire, Class A and B giants of Ohio high school basketball, again turned in convincing victories last night.

Middletown's triumph was in a regular season contest with Cincinnati Central, and the 74-45 result merely added luster to the Middies' No. 1 ranking in the current Associated Press poll.

Willshire whipped York, 87-55, in the Van Wert County tournament action to uphold its ranking as the state's top Class B club.

Gary Kessler, 6-8 center, led Willshire with 40 points.

Unranked Canton McKinley topped Canton Timken, No. 3 among the A quintets, 70-49, in a lopsided upset.

Other results among the Class A teams saw Canton South (No. 2) crush Louisville 87-46, Columbus East (No. 4) defeat Columbus Aquinas, 65-40, and Newark (No. 8) edge Chillicothe, 42-38.

Lorain (No. 10) beat Lorain Clearview, 86-62, in the Elyria Class A sectional tourney.

In a non-county Class B tournament, Columbus St. Mary (No. 3) defeated Holy Family, 80-47.

Kroll Barber, Tied In Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Ted Kroll and Jerry Barber shared the lead in the $30,000 Houston Open today but a dozen other golf pros began the third round no more than four strokes off the pace.

Kroll, a Pennsylvanian playing out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., cut loose with a string of long distance sub-par putts to draw even with Barber, the first round leader. At the 72-hole tournament's halfway mark, both were seven under par.

Kroll 70-67, Barber 67-70.

Lions Win SCO Title At Greenfield—Coming Up Now Are Tourneys

The Lion cagers of Washington C. H. High School today hold the basketball championship of the South Central Ohio League.

They wrapped it up neatly Friday night at Greenfield when they handed the Tigers of McClain High School there a 51 to 43 defeat, but only after a tense see-saw battle in which the Lions had to come from behind.

This was the final game of the schedules for both teams.

The victory was the 11th in a row for the Lions and the 15th in 18 games this season. They only loss in the SCO was the 83-63 set-back handed them by Wilmington's Hurricane at the start of the season. They edged the Hurricane 80 to 75 in the return game.

For the Tigers, Friday night's defeat was the ninth in a row and the 12th in 18 games. Their only SCO victory was over Circleville's Tigers, 57 to 51.

The Circleville Tigers wound up their season by pouring 98 points through the hoops to beat the boys from Logan, 98 to 84. They won 11 games and lost six as they broke even in SCO competition with four wins (Hillsboro, Wilmington, Greenfield and Hillsboro) and four losses (Washington C. H., Greenfield, Wilmington and Washington C. H.).

The Hurricane, which bounced into an early lead in the SCO and held it until it was stopped by the Lions of WHS in their next-to-last game of the schedule, appeared to have blown itself out during the first half of the season. After winning seven of the first eight games the Wilmington cagers cooled and lost half of their next eight to finish the season with 11 wins and five defeats.

Hillsboro's hapless Indians won only two games all season, but they were both in SCO play and from their old Highland County rivals at Greenfield. The Indians closed their season Friday night with their eighth loss in a row, a 61-44 defeat by Dayton Fairview basketballers.

At the end of the schedule, the standing of the SCO teams was:

WON LOST
Washington C. H.	7 1
Wilmington	6 2
Circleville	4 4
Hillsboro	2 6
Greenfield	1 7

The overall records for the five SCO teams was:

Washington C. H.	15 3
Wilmington	11 5
Circleville	11 6
Hillsboro	2 13
Greenfield	6 12

While Friday night's game wound up the schedules for all five of the SCO teams, they still have a lot of basketball ahead of them in the district tournaments — and if they win there, in the regional and state tournaments.

It is possible that the Lions of WHS and the Tigers of Circleville might meet a third time this season; for they both played in the district tournament at Columbus.

Washington C. H. High School officials, headed by Clyde Cramer, the faculty athletic manager, were in Columbus Saturday morning for the

Fairground Track Busy Place With Race Horses in Training

By THE GATE
With the approaching 1956 harness racing season, bigger and better racing is the prospect.
How more world records can be set after the extreme burst of speed shown last season we really don't know, but with improved breeding and training more new ones will probably go into the records this year.

The beginning of new records gets its start each season with the hard grind which is now under way at the Fairgrounds track here.

Two-year-olds have been broken to the harness during the past months and now are being jogged each day. Aged horses also are getting in several miles each week going the wrong way of the track in the annual conditioning program.

It won't be long now before they will be turned and headed the right way, with each week or two, their time in circling the oval being lowered by seconds.

Weather conditions play an important part in how fast the training moves along. This season has been a bad one here. The freezing and thawing of the ground has left mud, not only on the track but around the barns.

Before too long the days will get warmer and results of the winter grind will begin to show. Owners and trainers then will get their heads together and make the decisions as to which horses to continue training for the campaign ahead of them.

AT THE PRESENT time the stalls at the Fayette County Fairgrounds are all full. The Eddie Cobb stable will be the first to move out and head for the East when Roosevelt Raceway in New York opens April 2.

At the present Cobb's stable holds 44 promising candidates. He has a good group of aged horses including: Plebe (1:59.3) purchased at Lexington last fall; Irish (2:02.2) whom he raced successfully last season; Honest Jerry (2:01.3) a starter in the Jug last September; Winged Guy (2:00.4) new to his stable this year and owned by Wayne Martin of Circleville, and Minnewashta, Trudy Spencer, Vandy Song, Jochovolo and Dr. Turney.

He also has several promising youngsters by Hodgen and Jerry The First, who stand at the farm just east of the city on the Columbus road.

Paul (Slim) Norris is tutoring Damon Baker's string which include: Dusty Flo (2:04.2); Vonic Lite (2:08); Lite Prone (2:09); Doc Silk (2:06) and Bitucose (2:09). In the newcomer's list are Hickory Major, the colt Baker donated to the Polio Foundation at M. genetic Springs last fall then bought back for $1,500, Miss Prone and Miss Minton.

Eddie Kirk is training Victory Square, a full brother to Tim's Square, and has him staked heavily.

The Ohio Horse of the Year, Times Square, has not been brought to the training track yet. He is still at the Kirk farm near New Holland where he has been mated with several mares. Present plans call for him to begin training late in March or early in April.

The Rendezvous Stable of Ray Garrity has six head in training with Betty Astra, the good trotter with a record of 2:04.1, heading the list. Others are Irish Knight, Irish Knightdale, Betty Wick, Jerry Astra and The Rosercoft.

Dud Moon as usual has a full stable with Deacon Direct, High Society, Miss Abbe Stone, Liberty Boy and True Key. Moon confines his racing to the Ohio circuit with stops at Lebanon, Hilliards and the county fairs.

MCKINLEY KIRK probably the best known in the harness sport as an owner, trainer, driver and sportsman has a full stable.

Of course he will come back with Adios Winnie (2:07.3); Flaming Arrow (2:02.4) and a full crop of two-year-olds. In the list are Stimulator, sister to Adios Winnie; Future Delight, sister to Flaming Arrow; Adios Special; Treasure Lady and Jet Ray by Frank Jackson.

Gene and Guy Bock have five in their stable: Tandy's First, Dudley Pick, So-So-Lite, Forecaster and Royal Heritage.

NEW YORK (U)—Two members of San Francisco's undefeated Dons, All-America Bill Russell and K. C. Jones, today were named to play in the annual East-West basketball game here March 31.

Russell and Jones who play on the 10-man Western team coached by Pete Newell of California, also will be members of the Olympic squad that will compete in the final trials at Kansas City next month.

The makeup of the Eastern team will be announced shortly by Coach Tom Blackburn of Dayton.

Ormond Dewey has turned his Gold Mine over to Eddie Boyer who is schooling the two-year-old by Wilmington out of Sally G. at Springfield.

The season is already underway with racing now in progress at the Bay Meadows track at San Mateo, Calif. Santa Anita opens on March 13 and Magnolia Park at New Orleans, La., set to go on March 15. Championship Team's Stars Get Penalties

ASHLAND (U)—A member of Shiloh's 1955 Richland County championship basketball squad and three other youths accused of stealing from automobiles following basketball games pleaded guilty to petty larceny charges in court here yesterday.

They are Eugene Hamman, the basketball player; Aubrey Ned Lofland and Charles Hughes, all 18, and Jack Barnd, 20.

Each was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to seven days in jail and placed on probation for one year. Barnd and Hughes started serving their sentences.

Each was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to seven days in jail and placed on probation for one year. Barnd and Hughes started serving their sentences immediately. Hamman and Lofland are still in school and will serve their time on weekends.

Three younger members of the basketball team accused of the same offense appeared before Juvenile Judge Myers Thursday.

Judge Myers sentenced a 16-year-old youth to an indefinite term in Boys Industrial School at Lancaster, but sent him to Ashland County jail pending a review of his case March 15. A 17-year-old teammate was placed on probation and ordered to attend church regularly. Another 16-year-old was dismissed with a warning.

Police said the youths admitted stealing blankets, tires and other accessories from automobiles following basketball games here.

Briton Admires Rocky's Right

NEW YORK (U)—One hour after Rocky Castellani battered out a 10 round decision over England's Johnny Sullivan in Madison Square Garden last night they shook hands warmly in Castellani's dressing room.

"Nice fight, Rocky," said the 23-year-old Sullivan. "You fooled me with those right hand leads. I'm not used to a guy throwing a right hand without first seeing a left. I'll have to get used to that."

The right hand leads were the big difference in the 10-rounder. After Sullivan staggered the 12-5 favored Castellani in the second round, the more experienced, 28-year-old middleweight contender took the play away with his fast rights to the jaw.

count them up after this game. Both teams, he said, were "way off stride," with the estimated WHS shooting average from the floor an estimated 20 percent and the Greenfield average even worse.

"But we won," Russell said, "and that's what counts."

At the start of the game, it was not too certain that Washington C. H. boys would end on top. Greenfield opened the game by scoring a pair of points in the first 20 seconds of play. With the WHS boys not quite matching them basket for basket, the Tigers stood out in front at the end of the first quarter, 13-10.

The half ended just about the same way, with the spread cut down to a single point. The score stood at 21-20 in favor of Greenfield at intermission.

PUTTING on a preview of the final-quarter show, the Lions started their ball-stealing act late in the third quarter and wound up in front when the quarter ended, 33 to 31.

But that wasn't enough of an edge for the Lions. So they piled up enough points in the opening of the fourth quarter to go into a quiet slow-down of play toward the end of the game.

They continued scoring, at the same time working to keep possession of the ball.

With a Greenfield cage squad that include Knowles, Grubbs Legg, Wisecup, Faltz and Florea, the two squads looked like a cut-down pair of football teams.

The fact that John Bainter, Fred Belles, John Sommers, David Lee, Jim Mason and Charles Dadds were on the court for the Lions added to the effect.

Washington C. H. and Greenfield football squads including those boys met back in October in a grid game won by the Greenfield squad 20 to 0.

That game was later forfeited to WHS when it was learned one of the Greenfield boys was ineligible to play.

And Washington C. H. won the football title.

EVERY TOM SWAIN, Dick English and Ronnie Knisley were playing a football brand of basketball Friday night.

It was clean. But it was also rough-and-tumble, with the roughness coming in mainly as part of the tumbles.

Neither squad was wasting time worrying about bumps and bruises. If holding possession or stealing the ball meant taking a spill, over they went.

This was the last game on the schedule for each team.

The reaction of both fans of both squads seemed an anti-climax after the Wilmington game. In that game, Feb. 14, the Lions clinched at least a share of the title with the front-running Hurricane.

After beating Wilmington 80-75, the team, coaches and crowd broke into a wildly excited mob.

The reaction following the title-winning game at Greenfield was a good deal more calm. Perhaps the fact that it was played in Greenfield kept the reaction down.

But for the 1956 South Central Ohio League championship victory, it was might quiet.

All Major College Scoring Records Nearing Collapse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four high-scoring basketball teams are menacing all three of the major college team shooting records as the 1955-56 season draws near the end.

NCAA service bureau statistics, including games of Feb. 18, indicate Morehead State of Kentucky is virtually certain to become the highest scoring major college team in history. George Washington is heading for a new mark in percentage of field goal accuracy and either Illinois or Southern Methodist could establish a new standard for free throw accuracy.

Morehead had average 97.4 points per game through Feb. 18. Needing only 141 in two remaining regular-season games to break Furman's record 95.3 average of last year, Morehead hit 99 in losing to Ohio U. Wednesday night.

The next three high-scoring teams, Marshall (W. Va.) 93.1

average, Illinois, 92.3 and Memphis State all are headed for the post-season national collegiate tournament. Morehead doesn't have a tournament spot yet.

George Washington, which has led the nation in field goal percentage for three years, has a .503 average so far and aims to become the first team to score on more than half its attempts.

George Washington also leads in rebound recovery percentage with a .603 mark.

Illinois took the free throw accuracy lead from SMU last week with a .758 percentage to the Mustangs' .755. The record of .756 was set by Wake Forest last year.

San Francisco still leads in team defense, allowing its opponents an average of 50.4 points a game in winning 20 straight. Niagara has committed only 13.1 personal fouls a game, the lowest figure, and Bowling Green (Ky.) 23.2, the highest.

Only 4 More Cage Victories Needed By San Francisco '5'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The San Francisco Dons needed only four more victories today to complete an unbeaten regular season basketball schedule and North Carolina's Tarheels were assured of a tie for first place in the final Atlantic Coast Conference standings.

The top-ranked Dons crushed Santa Clara 80-44 Friday night for their 47th consecutive triumph. All-America Bill Russell rammed in 29 points, his highest total of the season. San Francisco's 80 points was its second highest total of the campaign and the 36-point spread the largest in its 21 victories this year.

Ninth-ranked North Carolina took a temporary lead in the ACC competition by beating Duke 73-65. The Tarheel advantage, however, will last only until tonight's North Carolina State-Wake Forest game.

Both N.C. State and Wake Forest are 10-3 in league action and the winner will deadlock North Carolina for first place. Should sixth-ranked State come through, it will automatically be top-seeded in the ACC tournament which gets underway in Raleigh next Thursday.

UCLA and Oklahoma City were the only other ranking college teams to see action Friday night. The Bruins, No. 15, moved further along the road to the Pacific Coast Conference title by defeating Oregon 95-71 while Oklahoma City, No. 18, was tripped by Seattle 70-63 in a game between two NCAA "at-large" entries.

Duquesne, which will defend its NIT title in New York next month, walloped Villanova 80-61. In other games, Utah came from behind in the final minutes to beat Brigham Young 82-77 and virtually set up the Skyline Conference crown. William and Mary downed Davidson 77-67. Penn. staved off Brown's late rally to win 90-79 in the Ivy League and LaSalle routed Scranton 82-51.

San Francisco next plays college of the Pacific Feb. 28. Then come Pepperdine, Loyola (Calif.) and St. Mary's (Calif.). The Dons already have beaten each of these teams handily.

Willshire whipped York, 87-55, in the Van Wert County tournament action to uphold its ranking as the state's top Class B club. Gary Kessler, 6-8 center, led Willshire with 40 points.

Unranked Canton McKinley topped Canton Timken, No. 5 among the A quintets, 70-49, in a lopsided upset.

Other results among the Class A teams saw Canton South (No. 2) crush Louisville 87-46, Columbus East (No. 4) defeat Columbus Aquinas, 65-40, and Newark (No. 8) edge Chillicothe, 42-38.

Lorain (No. 10) beat Lorain Clearview, 86-62, in the Elyria Class A sectional tourney.

In a non-county Class B tournament, Columbus St. Mary (No. 3) defeated Holy Family, 80-47.

Treasury Seen Loser If Tax Stamps Ended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U.P.)—State Sen. C. Stanley Mechem, Senate majority leader, says in his opinion the state "would lose, instead of gain" revenue if it did away with pre-paid sales tax stamps.

Mechem, chairman of a legislative committee studying the Sales Tax Act and possible changes in it, made the statement at a committee meeting Thursday. The group is part of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission, fact-finding arm of the General Assembly.

The Senator's views were supported by George Hammond, a spokesman for the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, who said, "We are convinced that the Ohio treasury would lose, not gain, if tax stamps are eliminated."

Hammond said an increase in number of tax auditors and expense of more tax returns would offset any present direct costs of the stamp plan if it were abandoned.

Opponents of tax stamps say the state would save $8 million dollars—the cost of redeeming, printing, distributing and paying out commissions on stamps in the 1954-55 fiscal year.

John Skipton, legislative service commission director, told the committee that the policy of redeeming stamps at three per cent of their face value is, in effect, a subsidy to religious and charitable groups.

About 40 per cent of state sales tax refunds last year went to religious groups. It has been proposed to the Legislature to replace the present sales tax system with a gross receipts tax to simplify collection and get rid of the redemption feature.

Youngstown Chief, Council In Squabble

YOUNGSTOWN (U.P.)—Mayor Frank X. Kryzan's dispute with city council over filling a council vacancy is expected to go to court for final settlement.

The vacancy was created by the recent death of Paul E. Dolak, of the Fourth Ward.

The mayor favors appointment of Dolak's son, Richard, but two Democrats teamed with two Republicans on the seven-member council to name Paul J. Andrich, who already has been sworn in.

Andrich attended last night's meeting at which the council received a report from City Law Director Felix Mika declaring that Andrich was not eligible because of a state law which bars councilmen from "other office or public employment."

Andrich is on leave from a teaching job in Howland Twp., Trumbull County.

The council took no action on the report and Mayor Kryzan was not present.

Attorneys have advised the council that regardless of whether a teaching job constitutes "other office or public employment," Youngstown is exempt from the state law as a home rule charter city under the state constitution.

The city charter provides that the mayor is empowered to appoint a replacement unless council fills a vacancy within 30 days. The 30-day period since Dolak's death expired Wednesday night.

Dirt-Cheap Dirt Offered Big City

CLEVELAND (U.P.)—A dirt-cheap opportunity to bring Cleveland's Lakefront Airport up to grade has been offered to the city.

Dirt, 500,000 cubic yards of it, will be donated from an excavation being made for a warehouse. Starting Monday, and for 90 days thereafter, dirt will be dumped at the airport and leveled by bulldozers provided by the excavating contractor. The windfall of fill dirt, Port Director William J. Rogers declared happily, "will expedite the building of the airport by one year."

North Carolina had 25,423 irrigated acres in 1954 compared with 2,083 in 1949.

Cop Has Easy Way To Grab Bookies

MIAMI, Fla. (U.P.)—Deputy Sheriff George McMillan has an easy way to catch bookmakers.

McMillan stationed himself outside the suspect's back door. Then he had a fellow officer telephone the suspect and tell him:

"Beat it, the cops are coming."

In 30 seconds flat, McMillan reported, the bookie bolted out the back door "right into my arms and he had all the evidence with him."

Month-Old Baby Loses Big Molar

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Robert Riddle Clinton lost his toothache yesterday and his tooth, a full-grown upper left molar was sported although he is only a month old.

The large, but loose molar, was extracted at Bellevue Hospital.

Dr. Robert J. Fischer, chief resident oral surgeon, removed the tooth in about 15 seconds and described the extraction as simple.

He said it is rare for such a tooth to appear in an infant. Usually, he said, when teeth do appear early, they are front teeth.

Egyptians Accused

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (U.P.)—An Israeli army spokesman said an Egyptian outpost in the Gaza strip opened fire twice at an Israeli patrol in Israeli territory near Kissufim Village today.

Japan exported 55 million dollars worth of cameras in 1955.

Lions Minstrel Being Polished

Nearly All Members To Have Part In It

The polish is to be put on the "Minstrel Capers of 1956" during the week end for the presentation in the high school auditorium Tuesday night.

Rehearsals have been called for the entire case and the business and production staff is to get a briefing on all the details.

Sponsored by the Washington C. H. Lions Club, proceeds from "Minstrel Capers of 1956" are to go into the club's sight - saving fund.

The general chairman of "Minstrel Capers of 1956" is John Breiner. Assistants to the chairman are R. Burris Tharp, Dr. Charles Pfersich, Dr. John Richards, Ray French and Robert Lytton.

These six Lions come as near to being the producer as anyone. Under the plan that has been worked, the show has been divided into two main parts, each under its own director.

Emerson Marting is the director of the end men.

William B. Clift (a Rotarian) is the director of the Chorus.

The Lionesses club—the women's auxiliary—is going to contribute a skit to the show this year, just as it did last year. The skit cast has been rehearsing behind closed doors most of the time in order to spring a surprise when the curtain goes up.

Mrs. Violet Lytton is the director of the Lionesses skit.

Mrs. Mary Jean Schwaigert is the accompanist for both the Lions and Lionesses shows.

VIRTUALLY every one of the 112 Lions has a part in the minstrel—either in the cast or with the production staff.

Nearly half of them are in the chorus, others will be ushers, ticket takers, stage hands and the like.

In the chorus will be John Bailey, Robert Boyd, L. F. Everhart, Ray French, Richard Gillen, Dustin Gorton, Lawrence Grim, Jerry Grundies, Clarence Hackett, Forrest Harper, Norris Highfield, Max Hopewell, James Hutton, George Inskip, Emory Lynch, Robert Lytton, Edwin McCoy, Langdon McCoy, Howard McDonald, Horace Jacobs, Dr. Richard Junk, William Junk, Kenneth Kelly, William Lovell, Tom Mark, Robert Meriwether, Robert Minshall, C. L. Musser, Charles Neikirk, Walter Rettig, Dr. John Richards, John Sagar, Jr., John Sagar, Sr., Gene Sagar, Harold Scott, Dale Smith, Frank Solars, Talmadge Taylor, R. B. Tharp, William Thompson, Frank Weade, Joseph White and Wayne Woodyard.

Taking part in the Lionesses' skit, "Queen of Hearts and a Joker," will be Mrs. Tom Christopher, Mrs. Lytton, Mrs. Byers Shaw, Mrs. Ray French and Mrs. Max Hopewell.

The eight end men, who will shed their dignity and be ridiculous just for laughs, are Marting, Harry Thrallkill, Robert Olinger, Dr. Charles Griffiths, Frank Lentz, Carl Wilt, Robert Terhune and H. H. (Dutch) Denton.

ROUSH BURTON is the director of the ushers; Joe White has charge of the program advertising; Paul Rodenfels is handling the publicity; Paul Van Voorhis is the director of the special musical group; G. B. Vance is the stage manager; John Bailey the ticket manager and Howard McDonald the finance director.

In the special orchestra that Van Voorhis has woven together will be seven high school boys with Mrs. Schwaigert the piano accompanist. The instrumentalists are Douglas Rider, trumpet; Dale Fent, trumpet; John Leland, alto saxophone; Earl Palmer, tenor saxophone; Byron Palmer, trombone; Don Crissinger, bass horn, and Bob Crouse, drums.

Giving the "Minstrel Capers of 1956" a touch of mystery, the chairman hinted today that a nationally known celebrity would make an appearance at the show. But, the identity of the guest artist is being kept a closely guarded secret. Those who know who it is—and the individual—said they have pledged themselves not to disclose who it is. They added that "the audience will love the part that the character will put on."

Ogan Gets Sales Management Award

David T. Ogan, sales manager of Carroll Halliday, Inc., Ford-Mercury auto dealer here, has been presented with the Ford Motor Co. award for outstanding sales management during November and December, 1955.

Ogan, of 1020 North North Street, was awarded a certificate plus wrist watches for himself and his wife by W. H. Kennedy, general field manager of the Cincinnati district Ford sales office and G. A. Robertson, field manager.

Jeff K of P Marks Double Anniversary

Celebrating the anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Pythias, both the national lodge and their own, more than 50 members and guests of the Jeffersonville K of P held a potluck supper and show at their lodge.

The national lodge was founded Feb. 19, 1864, and the Jeff Lodge was chartered just 28 years later, on Feb. 19, 1892.

The Gulek sisters — Carlynn, Jean and Judy — opened the program with a unique "piano trio," with all three girls performing on a single piano. Carlynn followed up with a piano solo.

Mary Anne Creamer, a Jeffersonville High School student, played two saxophone numbers.

Windup of the program was a showing of slides taken at the K of P Home in Springfield and a talk by its manager, former state Grand Chancellor Kenneth Hess. Commentary on the slides was by Milton Lyons.

William Allen, chancellor of the Jeffersonville Lodge, headed the committee in charge of the anniversary celebration.

Belated Christmas

Loudspeakers blared Christmas carols along with a tune called "Reindeer Rock" as the kids rode free on the ferris wheel. Sixteen jets roared overhead. Entertainment from Hollywood was promised for today, with three tons of toys being handed out.

Christmas in February was inspired by the Ingleswood, Calif., Lions Club, which first started a toy drive. Then almost everyone else in town took it up.

The toys eventually came from as far away as New York City. "It is unbelievable," said Mayor Glenn Gauche, "that people remember a Yuba City Christmas."

Dulles Sure West

(Continued from page one) sion of Russia's changing cold war policies by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) who said the Soviet Union seemed to be making progress in attempts to "pre-empt the world."

Dulles replied that the Russians had made "very little progress." He added:

"This minute in Moscow they are revising their whole program. If we were revising our program, it would be said that our policies have failed."

"The fact is that they have failed and they have got to revise their policies."

He said that resulted from "the unity, firmness and determination of the free world."

It now appears to him, Dulles said, that Russia is bringing its system and its behavior "closer to ours." In doing so, he added, the Soviet Union is "making itself more acceptable in other parts of the world."

Some May Go To Institute From County

A few Fayette County personages may be attending an institute on "Strengthening the Family Through Counseling" March 5 in Xenia, sponsored by the Greene County Mental Health Association.

Clergymen, physicians, lawyers, welfare workers, law enforcement officers and members of the judiciary in Fayette, Greene and Clinton Counties received word of the institute, the first of its kind in the area and the first big project of the relatively young Greene County association.

Juvenile Court Judge Robert L. Brubaker, Fayette County resident vitally interested in mental health and mental health programs, said that he hoped some representative from here would attend the all-day meeting. "Maybe this will kick off something here," he hoped.

There has been a bit of strictly informal talk on the subject of a three-county mental health program. But so far nothing has resulted along those lines as yet.

The Greene County organization is only a year old. It is headed by Dr. Meinhard Robinow of the Yellow Springs Clinic.

Letters of notification of the meeting were sent to professional people throughout Fayette County. Brubaker will attend if possible, and several ministers also are considering or planning to attend the meeting. As far as could be determined, there are no other residents here planning to attend.

Tornadoes Hit Ohio

(Continued from page one) heavily damaged at the Lee Massie trailer camp east of Chillicothe. Six persons were reported hurt there, but the patrol said perhaps only one would require medical treatment.

AT THE HAAS trailer camp at the east edge of Chillicothe, two trailers were overturned by the storm. Three persons suffered cuts and bruises.

The storm struck Hamilton at 5:55 a. m. The weather bureau at 4:4 a. m. had issued a "severe weather" warning, saying severe thunderstorms and possible tornadoes could hit across the state.

A tornado slashed across St. Clair County in southern Illinois early today, leaving at least six dead on its path.

Three of the dead were in Sumnerfield, a town of 500 persons 35 miles east of St. Louis where the storm hit the hardest.

First hit was Millstadt, Ill. 15 miles south of St. Louis along the Mississippi River. The storm wrecked houses from there up to East St. Louis suburbs of Centerville Station where a 4-year-old boy perished.

The bodies of a man and woman were found near Millstadt.

Several persons were reported missing in Summerfield.

Accountants Hold Regional Meeting

The Ohio Central District Chapter of the American Association of Hospital Accountants, an organization involving 38 counties in this part of Ohio, were guests this week of Memorial Hospital here.

Miss Maxine Gilmer, office manager of Memorial Hospital and president of the organization, played host to the 26 representatives who attended the afternoon session.

Arrangements were made at the session here for an all - Ohio convention in Columbus, coupled with the Ohio Hospital Association convention in April.

Hot Furnace Cause Of Alarm Friday

Lions Minstrel Being Polished

Nearly All Members To Have Part In It

The polish is to be put on the "Minstrel Capers of 1956" during the week end for the presentation in the high school auditorium Tuesday night.

Rehearsals have been called for the entire case and the business and production staff is to get a briefing on all the details.

Sponsored by the Washington C. H. Lions Club, proceeds from "Minstrel Capers of 1956" are to go into the club's sight-saving fund.

The general chairman of "Minstrel Capers of 1956" is John Breiner. Assistants to the chairman are R. Burris Sharp, Dr. Charles Pfersick, Dr. John Richards, Ray French and Robert Lytton.

These six Lions come as near to being the producer as anyone. Under the plan that has been worked, the show has been divided into two main parts, each under its own director.

Emerson Marting is the director of the end men.

William B. Clift (a Rotarian) is the director of the Chorus.

The Lioness club—the women's auxiliary—is going to contribute a skit to the show this year, just as it did last year. The skit cast has been rehearsing behind closed doors most of the time in order to spring a surprise when the curtain goes up.

Mrs. Violet Lytton is the director of the Lioness skit.

Mrs. Mary Jean Schwaigert is the accompanist for both the Lions and Lionesses shows.

VIRTUALLY every one of the 112 Lions has a part in the minstrel—either in the cast or with the production staff.

Nearly half of them are in the chorus, others will be ushers, ticket takers, stage hands and the like.

In the chorus will be John Bailey, Robert Boyd, L. F. Everhart, Ray French, Richard Gillen, Dustin Girton, Lawrence Grim, Jerry Grudgies, Clarence Hackett, Forrest Harper, Norris Highfield, Max Hopewell, James Hutton, George Inskeep, Emory Lynch, Robert Lytton, Edwin McCoy, Langdon McCoy, Howard McDonald, Horace Jacobs, Dr. Richard Junk, William Junk, Kenneth Kelly, William Lovell, Tom Mark, Robert Meriwether, Robert Minshall, C. L. Musser, Charles Neikirk, Walter Rettig, Dr. John Richards, John Sagar, Jr., John Sagar, Sr., Gene Sagar, Harold Scott, Dale Smith, Frank Solars, Talmadge Taylor, R. B. Sharp, William Thompson, Frank Weade, Joseph White and Wayne Woodyard.

Taking part in the Lioness' skit, "Queen of Hearts and a Joker," will be Mrs. Tom Christopher, Mrs. Lytton, Mrs. Byers Shaw, Mrs. Ray French and Mrs. Max Hopewell.

The eight end men, who will shed their dignity and be ridiculous just for laughs, are Marting, Harry Thraikill, Robert Olinger, Dr. Charles Griffiths, Frank Lentz, Carl Wilt, Robert Terhune and H. H. (Dutch) Denton.

ROUSH BURTON is the director of the ushers; Joe White has charge of the program advertising; Paul Rodenfels is handling the publicity; Paul Van Voorhis is the director of the special musical group; G. E. Vance is the stage manager; John Bailey the ticket manager and Howard McDonald the finance director.

In the special orchestra that Van Voorhis has woven together will be seven high school boys with Mrs. Schwaigert the piano accompanist. The instrumentalists are Douglas Rider, trumpet; Dale Fent, trumpet; John Leland, alto saxophone; Earl Palmer, tenor saxophone; Byron Palmer, trombone; Don Crissinger, bass horn, and Bob Crouse, drums.

Giving the "Minstrel Capers of 1956" a touch of mystery, the chairman hinted today that a nationally known celebrity would make an appearance at the show. But, the identity of the guest artist is being kept a closely guarded secret. Those who know who it is—and the individual—said they have pledged themselves not to disclose who it is. They added that "the audience will love the part the character will put on."

Host to the delegates will be the O. E. Hardway Post 3762 of Washington C. H. This will mark the first time in many years that Washington C. H. has been the scene of a district conference, according to Commander Don Fowler of the Hardway Post.

The afternoon conferences will be split, with the VFW delegates returning to the Eagles' Hall and the Auxiliary units meeting in the GAR Hall.

Four district conferences are held each year. This is the first of 1956.

Jeff K of P Marks Double Anniversary

Celebrating the anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Pythias, both the national lodge and their own, more than 50 members and guests of the Jeffersonville K of P held a potluck supper and show at their lodge.

The national lodge was founded Feb. 19, 1864, and the Jeff Lodge was chartered just 28 years later, on Feb. 19, 1892.

The Gulick sisters — Carlynn, Jean and Judy — opened the program with a unique "piano trio," with all three girls performing on a single piano. Carlynn followed up with a piano solo.

Mary Anne Creamer, a Jeffersonville High School student, played two saxophone numbers.

Windup of the program was a showing of slides taken at the K of P Home in Springfield and a talk by its manager, former state Grand Chancellor Kenneth Hess. Commentary on the slides was by Milton Lyons.

William Allen, chancellor of the Jeffersonville Lodge, headed the committee in charge of the anniversary celebration.

Loudspeakers blared Christmas carols along with a tune called "Reindeer Rock" as the kids rode free on the ferris wheel. Sixteen jets roared overhead. Entertainment from Jollywood was promised for today, with three tons of toys being handed out.

Christmas in February was inspired by the Ingleswood, Calif., Lions Club, which first started a toy drive. Then almost everyone else in town took it up.

The toys eventually came from as far away as New York City.

"It is unbelievable," said Mayor Glenn Gauche, "that people remember a Yuba City Christmas."

During the business meeting, led by Cubmaster Hiser, the boys learned that their tax stamp collection had netted $47. They also discussed the upcoming Scout-O-Rama in Columbus.

The program opened with a history of Scouting by Billy Creamer. The lives of three famous men born in February were sketched by Curtis Hiser, Jimmy Pitzer and Vernon Klontz.

Dulles Sure West

(Continued from page one) sion of Russia's changing cold war policies by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) who said the Soviet Union seemed to be making progress in attempts to "pre-empt the world."

Dulles replied that the Russians had made "very little progress" He added:

"This minute in Moscow they are revising their whole program. If we were revising our program, it would be said that our policies have failed."

"The fact is that they have failed and they have got to revise their policies."

He said that resulted from "the unity, firmness and determination of the free world."

It now appears to him, Dulles said, that Russia is bringing its system and its behavior "closer to ours." In doing so, he added, the Soviet Union is "making itself more acceptable in other parts of the world."

Some May Go To Institute From County

A few Fayette County personages may be attending an institute on "Strengthening the Family Through Counseling" March 5 in Xenia, sponsored by the Greene County Mental Health Association.

Clergymen, physicians, lawyers, welfare workers, law enforcement officers and members of the judiciary in Fayette, Greene and Clinton Counties received word of the institute, the first of its kind in the area and the first big project of the relatively young Greene County association.

Juvenile Court Judge Robert L. Brubaker, Fayette County resident vitally interested in mental health and mental health programs, said that he hoped some representative from here would attend the all-day meeting. "Maybe this will kick off something here," he hoped.

There has been a bit of strictly informal talk on the subject of a three-county mental health program. But so far nothing has resulted along those lines as yet.

The Greene County organization is only a year old. It is headed by Dr. Meinhard Robinson of the Yellow Springs Clinic.

Letters of notification of the meeting were sent to professional people throughout Fayette County. Brubaker will attend if possible, and several ministers also are considering or planning to attend the meeting. As far as could be determined, there are no other residents here planning to attend.

Hot Furnace Cause Of Alarm Friday

Called to the Charles Erb home in Millwood Friday firemen found an overheated furnace, and smoke in the house was so dense that it was impossible to enter some of the rooms until they had been ventilated.

Failure of the thermostat to work was given as reason for the overheated furnace. No damage resulted.
